Two Governing Bodies Vote to Cut $316,000 from School Budget Amid Verbal Gunfire

After long days and long, late hours of talking, listening and working, Borough and Township governing bodies last Friday told Princeton's school board to cut $316,000 --- a scant 4 percent --- from the defeated $8 million school budget. (For the school board's reaction, see story on page 1.)

It was very early indeed on Friday --- 1 a.m. --- when the final decision was reached. It came at the end of a public meeting that was itself the end of a series of such meetings, this last one marked by sharp gunfire between teachers and municipal officials, long exchanges between board members and officials that sometimes revealed the hostility that seemed beneath the surface on both sides.

The greatest source of frustration for the two governing bodies was the gradually dawning realization that more than 80 percent of the budget is already frozen by contracts with various groups, and can't be touched.

"It's a farce!" exploded Borough Council member Nelson van den Blink. "The public thinks it has a 'say' when it votes on the school budget, but contracts are already tied up. We're all being fooled when we think we have a 'say'."

Under a new state law, negotiations with teachers and other staff members must adhere to a strict deadline schedule. The aim is to complete contract negotiations before the budget vote.

The $316,000 figure which town officials hope will stick is a compromise. Borough officials, led by Gus Escher, Council's finance chairman and one of three Council members assigned the school budget responsibility (Martin P. Lombardo and Mrs. van den Blink are the others), wanted a $328,000 cut. Township officials would have preferred $276,000.

Mr. Escher, whose constituents had voted down the budget, protested that the $328,000 was itself a compromise. Township Mayor Jay Bleiman, whose municipality had supported the budget, was willing to settle for $300,000. Chipping here, adding there, the municipal officials sitting around the table in Borough Hall Thursday night -- and Friday morning -- finally agreed on $316,000.

It breaks down like this:

$87,700—eliminating the positions of personnel administrator (and secretary), office manager in the business administration office and two assistant principals at the high school.

$6,200—requiring students to buy their own athletic shoes and wash their own athletic uniforms.

$30,300—cut from plant operations.

$11,600—cut from plant maintenance.

School Board Plans to Appeal $316,000 Cut In Budget Made by Council and Committee

Princeton's school board will appeal to the state the $316,000 cut in the school budget made by Borough Council and Township Committee.

At a special meeting Tuesday night, the board voted, 5-1, to file an "intent" to appeal. Robin Wallack was the dissenter. Those voting "yes" were Dietrich Meyerhoffer, Joan Doig, Judith Getis, Winthrop Pike and Dale Madden. Hannah Fox, Gail Firestone and J.B. Smith were absent.

This Thursday at 8 p.m. in valley Road, the board will meet publicly to continue a discussion of specific ways to implement cuts. In the procedure of appeal to the Commissioner of Education, there is the formal filing of the appeal - following the filing of Tuesday's "intent" - then a pre-hearing conciliation conference. If this fails, then Princeton's case goes into the docket for formal hearings. Depending on where Princeton comes in the line, it could be a year before a decision is reached.

Board members said Tuesday they hoped that because questions of legality have been raised about some of the Borough cuts, the Commissioner's office might bump Princeton farther forward in the line.

Budget Not Sufficient. In the resolution of appeal, the board stated that the pruned-back budget was "not sufficient to provide a thorough and efficient education" under New Jersey laws. In a statement released before Tuesday's meeting, board president Dietrich Meyerhoffer declared, "We believe the kinds of cuts made by Council and Committee will have a significant negative effect on the quality of Princeton education. Considering the closeness of the vote, we are not convinced that is really what the community desires."

Dr. Meyerhoffer said that in the past two years, school budgets have trimmed away the pre-kindergarten program, forced a steady reduction in a "widely-admired foreign language program," reduced staff-development programs and compelled an increase in pupils-per-teacher at the high school.

The board president also protested the way he said Council and Committee decided where to cut, especially where "legal and contractual restraints" were concerned.

"At times," he said, "it seemed that explanations and supporting evidence were falling on deaf ears ... The board found it very frustrating to communicate effectively in an atmosphere in which it appeared that the total dollar amount of the cut had been predetermined.

Martin P. Lombardo, Borough Councilman on the budget team, questioned Dr. Meyerhoffer's statement, after he learned it had been distributed earlier Tuesday. Under the "Sunshine" law, he said, policy statements should be developed publicly.

Dr. McPherson explained that it was the president's statement, reflecting his position and that of a majority of the board.

At Tuesday night's meeting, Dr. McPherson suggested one way to settle questions of legality in regard to budget cuts would be to freeze salaries and sabbaticals, as requested by the governing bodies, then prod a staff member to institute a suit.

However, deadlines are looming for letting teachers know what their status next year will be, and Dr. McPherson told the board it should have these decisions by April 1 or, at the latest, April 9. Too soon the board agreed, to get started on a suit.

$200,000 Cut. Dr. McPherson told the board he could cut $200,000 without making cuts in staff, he said that, although the board had already made some cuts in its allowance for inflationary price increases, $50,000 more in these cuts could be made.

He checked off $29,000 more in cuts for materials and equipment; $23,300 in food services - a program the board subsidizes - $10,700 in tuition for pupils who must be placed in outside schools; $2,300 by eliminating substitute nurses; $1,300 in temporary help for maintenance staff; $4,500, cutting in half the guidance department's summer work; $2,600 in salary increases in the student activity account.

The superintendent said money could be saved by eliminating inter-scholastic athletics ($50,000); cutting out all but varsity sports ($25,000) and eliminating spring semester sports ($20,000).

Dale Madden asked about cutting other extra-curricular activities, and Dr. McPherson promised him a list for Thursday's meeting.

If pupils walk to a central bus pick-up, the transportation account could save about $25,000, the superintendent continued. The Prin-cton Adult School's use of the high school costs about $10,000 in custodial overtime, the board learned.

Close Johnson Park? Long-range, the board could save money by closing Johnson Park and distributing its 250 students in other elementary schools. The building, itself, might then be sold.

The superintendent also outlined a game of musical chairs in which teachers were "fired," then hired back on a contingency basis - you get your job back if we win the appeal. He suggested deferring sabbaticals until the second semester, again gambling on winning the appeal by December 1.

Mrs. Doig reminded the board of the load to be borne by all school districts under thorough-and-efficient requirements, and said she was uneasy about administrative cuts suggested by Borough and Township.

"We really haven't played out T. & E.," she said. "If we eliminate these jobs, the T. & E. work will get shoved onto the classroom teacher."

KINDERGARTEN, YES
Parents Support. Over 80 parents of kindergarteners-to-be gathered at Community Park School's PTO meeting Monday night to make vigorous protest against a proposed change from the present "extended" -- or all-day -- kindergarten to the old-style half-day sessions.

"Extended kindergarten" means that the five-year-olds attend school all day -- or at least, longer than the traditional two and one-half hour sessions. The actual length of the kindergarten day depends on the teacher.

Parents who attended Monday night's meeting hope to head off the change before it is formally adopted by the school board.

It's all linked to the defeat of the school budget, and recent efforts of Borough Council and Township Committee to make cuts. In a memorandum on March 2, Superintendent Philip E. McPherson told the school board that if it decided to make a two-and-one-half percent overall budget cut (which the board did decide to do), it would mean elimination of two and one-half additional teachers.

The Superintendent suggested that, if this cut were indeed made, first priority might be given to wiping out the extended kindergarten, and second priority to eliminating fourth-grade instrumental music.

Parents who attended Monday's meeting came from all over the district. Those whose children are not yet in public schools were aware of $25,000—freeze on administrative salaries.

$78,500—elimination of sabbaticals.

$76,700—lower salary increases.

At one point in the discussion, Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley summed up the frustration of his colleagues when he shrugged and said in a resigned tone, "They're going to do whatever they want to do."

Recommendations Only. "They," of course, are school board members. Under state law, governing bodies saddled with re-working a defeated school budget can only make recommendations to the board. If the dollar amount is upheld, the board must cut the budget by that figure, but cuts can be made anywhere.

Actually, the two governing bodies need not have spent the endless midnight hours. The law doesn't require the kind of detailed specifics the governing bodies recommended, only a certification by category — current expenses, and so on. There does have to be a rationale for the figure governing bodies arrive at, and in practical terms, the state's Commissioner of Education would want to know, as he considers an appeal, what the basis was for the cuts.

"We felt we had to justify the cut to ourselves and the public and not be capricious," said Mrs. van den Blink, explaining the long hours of pencil and paper work.

Meanwhile, the school board has its own frustrations. President Dietrich Meyerhofer, in a statement read at Thursday's meeting, patiently explained once again the chaotic state financing situation that has left "any budgeting process almost hopeless."

He warned that the pension burden, suddenly imposed by the state on local boards, could increase even more — who knows! — and he pointed out that since there is no more slack in the budget, like reserves or capital outlay, educational programs will have to be reduced.

"At the budget hearing," he said, "the main citizen input consisted of pleas to restore drastic reductions in budget and program. Such a concern for the quality of education hasn't been heard in a long time."

Mandate Lacking. He said the board "strongly feels" that the small turn-out of voters and the fact that Borough voters turned down the budget and Township voters supported it, "do not provide a mandate for further cuts to be made."

Early in Thursday's meeting, board member Joan Doig, who represents the Borough, reminded Council and Committee sharply that she was unopposed in her recent bid for re-election, "... which says something about the Borough."

It was Mr. Lombardo who had the harshest words for the board. He recalled that board member Gail Firestone had asked her colleagues to explore further cuts and had been refused. "This was shocking to me," Mr. Lombardo declared, and he continued,

"I have never seen an elected body stonewall it so badly as the school board. The board has never, at any time suggested areas that might be cut. Mrs. Doig said the voters were not rational — that shows total disregard for the voters and a contempt for democracy. The defeat of this budget has told you board members nothing."

McPherson Defends Board. Soon after this outburst, Superintendent Philip E. McPherson, from the audience, rose angrily to his feet. Of the school board that has refused him a raise for several years and has unanimously and publicly declared its wish to be rid of him, he said,

"I have never seen a school board rise to an occasion like this, and I have never seen this board grapple with a tougher problem. To say they have 'stonewalled' is patently ridiculous. They could have held back on cuts, knowing it would be cut more after defeat. They didn't do that."

"Sure, we could use the Loop bus for transportation, water the soup and raise prices. But there is no list in the board's pocket of more cuts that could be made."

Martin Schneiderman, Riverside teacher and official of the PREA (teachers' union), said in some bitterness that municipal budgets aren't subject to a public vote.

"You're asking teachers to make the sacrifice," he said. Referring to frequent comments that teachers and administrators have a higher pay scale than municipal employees, he said,

"You can't compare teachers and municipal employees — the required educational level, the responsibilities, the planning. There is no comparison."

Sabbaticals Debated. Uncertainties had developed over what might, legally, be cut. Mr. Escher reported that board attorney Thomas Cook, who was not present at Thursday night's meeting, said teachers had already been notified of sabbaticals and this could be construed as a contractual obligation. General salary negotiations with staff, not yet ratified, don't have that legal standing. Mr. Escher reported Mr. Cook as saying,

"Sabbaticals are a luxury that must go!" exclaimed Margaret Broadwater, of Township Committee, and Mayor Bleiman observed that nothing in the contracts obliged the board to award sabbaticals.

"We're sending a signal to the board — don't make that mistake again," Mayor Bleiman warned.

A long argument over buying athletic shoes and washing athletic uniforms was a repeat of the same argument last week. Mr. Cook reportedly had told Council and Committee that policy on football shoes and the scouring of uniforms at school board expense, was mandated by the state, and Dr. Meyerhofer protested that the board was being asked to make cuts that were illegal.

Raymond Hunt, PREA president, said tartly, "We're still operating a free public school system, and to institute a welfare system with scholarships for athletes who can't afford shoes is to defeat the basic principles of public education."

Shoes Debated, Too. It was Mr. Lombardo who held out for students' buying their own shoes. He and Mr. Hunt had a sharp skirmish over this issue, Mr. Lombardo declaring that students wanted to buy their own shoes, and charging that the board hadn't asked students how they felt. He also accused Mr. Hunt of "using the students to get what you want in salaries."

With persistent questioning, Mr. Hunt was unable to find out exactly which students and how many Mr. Lombardo himself had talked to, and Mr. Schneiderman and Mrs. Kay Mack, who had run for the school board, repeatedly cited state law.

"You keep yelling about student input," Mr. Hunt shouted at Mr. Lombardo, "but students don't know the law and you seem not to."

Eruptions such as these came late in the evening when weary tempers were raw and impatient. Mostly, Thursday was an evening in which representatives of Council and Committee worked around action could be contested their table," sometimes under the Public Employee speaking so softly that a member of the audience would ask whether it was supposed to be a public meeting.

To clarify Princeton's position among school districts, Mr. Escher produced a pair of tables, prepared with Mrs. van den Blink, showing Princeton's standing, state-wide, in a variety of categories. The tables showed that Princeton leads the state in current expenses per pupil ($1,941); is second-largest in dollars per weighted pupil ($1,883); is second largest also in teacher dollars per pupil ($959).

The district is in the bottom third of districts in minimum starting pay for teachers; 41st out of 62 similar districts in pay for teachers with a master's degree and 19th in pay for teachers with a doctorate. In maximum pay for teachers, Princeton is in the upper third — 21st in the list of 62.

Mrs. Doig, the board's negotiations member, told the governing bodies that over a four-year period, Princeton raises have averaged less than 7 percent a year, while the state pattern has been 8-8½ percent. She cited the "memorandum of agreement" signed by board and PREA for the next two years, acknowledging that "in the very narrow legal sense," both parties could repudiate the memorandum. If this happened, she warned, the

Winds of Twister Proportions Rip into Princeton Sunday, Felling Trees and Knocking Out Power

Whatever it was, it was short-lived, capricious and mean. The ill-wind that blew through Princeton Sunday afternoon leveled trees and limbs which knocked down power lines creating scattered power failures and causing an estimated $12,600 damage in the Township.

But overall, Princeton escaped extreme examples of the storm's fury: a demolished house in Ewing, 40 planes wrecked at the Robinsville-Trenton Airport, a third of the slate-roof of the Pennington Methodist Church ripped away. (Picture, page 22).

A favorite question Monday was "Where were you when the storm hit?"

It was a "suspected mini-tornado" said David Ludlum of Science Associates, Princeton's own color man for main events spawned by the weather. He reported gusts of 70 to 80 miles an hour.

The front moved across Pennsylvania all day and the reason it was so severe, Mr. Ludlum explained, was that it struck in mid-afternoon when the air is warmest and there is the greatest development of local storms. If it had arrived in the morning, there probably would have been no destruction, he said.

KAYOED BY STORM: Two of the many trees leveled in Sunday's violent storm were this huge maple (above) at the entrance to Hunt Farm on Mercer Road and another across a dirt road next to the Canal off Washington Road. Thirteen trees along Washington were toppled.

travel in "veins." One vein extended from Pennington, Friends Meeting to Route 1 - all areas of high damage. Some reported seeing a whirling cloud and Mr. Ludlum is inclined to agree-hence the "mini-tornado."

Power lines down on U.S. 1 affected a sub-station in Princeton, causing a power failure in the area of lower Nassau Street, North Harrison and Hamilton Avenue that lasted two and a half to three hours. A Parkside resident reported power out from 2:30 to 10:15.

A 3:13 power failure at Frick Lab on the University campus caused the structure to fill with toxic fumes when fans stopped turning and the building was evacuated. Capt. Theodore Lewis reported there were no problems, however.

Borough Engineer George Olexa said that Witherspoon, Maclean and Prospect Avenue were closed to traffic for short periods of time to allow crews to clean away fallen trees and limbs but he reported no structural damages.

In the Township, Chief Frederick Porter reported that the only road closed was Quaker Bridge from 4:14 to 10:10 -- the victim of two large trees that fell across the road. Nearby, the tree-lined entrance to Hunt Farm at Mercer Road and Quaker Bridge was hit hard as a number of stately old maples were toppled.

A workman sawing a tree on Washington Road Monday reported that 13 trees had fallen between Prospect and Route 1.

The Toll. Lt. Richard Steiner made a rough, "ballpark estimate" of the damage and came up with these figures: municipal, 10 large trees, $1,000; private, 29

A hard hit area was the intersection of Longview Drive and Lake Drive: four large trees down, roof and breezeway damaged. There were seven trees uprooted on Hartley Avenue, four TV antennas damaged on McCosh Circle.

Other streets in the Township with trees down were Route 206 South, Cherry Hill Road, Castle Howard Court, Riverside, Butler tract, and Snowden Lane. "We were fortunate; the only thing we lost were a lot of trees," said Chief Porter.

In the Borough a large tree fell on Maclean Street. Others were down on College Road West, Prospect, Patton and Hamilton.

TO FINISH AGENDA

In Township. Loose ends from a pair of Township Committee meetings, one a work session and the other a regular meeting, will occupy Committee at a special meeting next Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Township Hall. The meeting was originally scheduled for Monday.

Members of Committee will decide whether to spray against gypsy moth invaders on Mt. Lucas Road, considering comments of March, the month that provides the widest temperature fluctuations, has been enhancing its reputation. From readings in the 70s on the first day of spring, the thermometer made it down as far as the mid 20s Tuesday morning.

the meeting through posters displayed at nursery-schools.

They heard Hilton Anderson, acting building principal of Community Park, explain that:

"At the moment, I am proposing that extended kindergarten in Community Park be continued. I understand that all schools except Community Park are going to split kindergarten."

Mr. Anderson added, "However, we must follow the guidelines of the board, and we are facing possible reductions of staff. We must make a decision of the educationally sound programs to be retained. Elimination of extended kindergarten, the Community Park staff feels, would be a serious loss."

Petitions will be circulated in nursery schools expressing support for the extended-day kindergarten. Parents are also expected to make their case at the regular school board meeting next Tuesday, March 30, at 8 in Community Park School.

Art-People Planning a Bridge Party

A bridge picnic on the "Pontevecchio" — well, on the Washington Road bridge — will be this year's Art People party. It will be held from noon to 4:30 Sunday, May 2, a departure from recent Saturday Art People days.

If it rains, the picnic will be held under the Palmer Stadium colonnade. Parking, in any case, will be at Jadwin Gym.

Artisans, artists and photographers are invited to display and sell their wares right on the bridge itself. Anyone who wishes to do so — or dancers and musicians who want to perform — must complete an application form and return it to the Chamber of Commerce by April 20.

Forms are available at the Chamber's offices in the 44 Nassau Street building, at the Public Library and in the Recreation Department offices in the Valley Road building on Witherspoon Street.

Picnickers who plan to take canoes, boats "or other forms of navigable transportation," in the words of the sponsoring Arts Council of Princeton, are also required to register with the Chamber of Commerce so that safety precautions can be arranged.

and review the budget in advance. Copies are available to the public in Township Hall.

Bids will be received for repairs to the Hillside sewer system. Committee will also decide what to do about a resident protesting a $15 redemption fee for an impounded dog. The dog was apparently given away before the owner appeared to pay the fee.

Mini-bike control, and the kind of ordinance to write, will also occupy Committee, and there will be a review of the "general agenda." Committee hopes to follow for the rest of the year.

WANT TO RUN?

Slates are Open. If you're interested in local politics, Republicans and Democrats want to talk to you. Deadline for filing applications, in case you want to run for office in the fall, is Thursday, April 29, and both parties are running against the calendar.

In the Borough, Republicans under Charles L. Taggart are looking for people who might be qualified to run for Borough Council, candidates for District Committeemen and Committeewomen and helpers willing to staff campaign headquarters. Republicans are interested in newcomers, oldtimers, people of all ages and even, they say, "disenchanted Democrats." Information may be obtained from Dick Woodbridge, 924-7649 or 924-2420.

Democrats, Borough and Township, are on the hunt, also. The Princeton Community Democratic Organization invites anyone interested in running for Borough Council or Township Committee to call Mary Wisnovsky after 5:30 at 924-9457.

SIX ARE ARRESTED

For Various Offenses. Borough police last week arrested six persons for various offenses.

Floyd L. Nolan, 28, of Trenton was arrested in Marsh's Pharmacy, 30 Nassau Street, after he allegedly became involved in an altercation with the owner. Det. Ronald Holliday charged Nolan with possession of a concealed dangerous weapon when police uncovered a large knife in his sock. He is being held in $1,000 bail in Mercer County Jail.

William Blackburn, 48, no known address, was arrested on Nassau Street last week and charged with larceny, malicious damage and possession of stolen property.

According to police, Blackburn stole a long-handled shovel behind PJs Pancake House, 154 Nassau, went around front to Bainbridge House, reached up with a shovel and knocked down an American flag and pole and carted them off.

The shovel and flag were in his possession when he was arrested, Capt. Theodore Lewis reported. Blackburn was freed on $50 bail.

Teoptios Kokonae, 22, a Greek alien who told police that he had jumped ship in Montreal ten days earlier, was arrested Sunday morning after he allegedly took a 75-cent magazine from Cox's Store on Nassau Street.

With the aid of an interpreter, police learned from the suspect that he had flown to New York and then taken a bus to Princeton where, he told them, he was working in a Route 1 diner. He was turned over to two immigration agents from the Newark office.

A 16-year old juvenile from West Nyack, N.Y. was arrested Friday evening when he was observed attending a concert at Alexander Hall carrying a 14-inch plastic pipe used to smoke marijuana.

After being charged with possession of under 25 grams of marijuana and processed by juvenile officer Douglas Watson, he was released to his parents.

Two Trenton residents were arrested and charged with possession of stolen property and attempted larceny after they allegedly tried to steal a bottle of whiskey from Cousins Liquor Store on Palmer Square.

Gregory McWhite, 22, is being held in Mercer Jail in default of $2000 bail; Debra A. Middleton, 21, is being held in the same jail in default of $1,000 bail.

Police said the two had tried to conceal the bottle under their clothing but were unsuccessful and ran out of the store. Apprehended a short time later by Detectives Timothy Huizing and Ronald Holliday, they were found to have in their possession another whiskey bottle which a check revealed had been stolen from a Ewing Township store.

THE LATEST CRAZE?
Rock-Throwing Vandals.
"We've had a lot of windows being broken at night, at least eight or nine incidents in the last three or four nights." In commenting on the rash of breakings, Township Juvenile Officer Anthony Pinelli reported the missiles ranged from garbage cans and beer bottles to a 30-pound rock. The usual time is midnight to around 1 a.m., but one happened as late as 3:30.

Det. Pinelli reported windows broken on Caldwell Drive, Randall Road, Riverside, Grover Avenue plus two in Montgomery Township. He said police suspect teenagers driving around in cars are responsible.

Manfred Rost, 644 Princeton-Kingston Road, told police that he and his family were sitting in their living room Friday when they heard glass shatter in the dining room. Investigating, they discovered a large rock had been hurled through a thermal pane window which was valued at $300.

Another resident reporting a $300 window shattered by a thrown beer bottle was Edler Hawkins, 226 Ross Stevenson Circle.

In the Borough, a Tee-Ar Place resident told police that a large rock had been thrown in a front window a few minutes past midnight Saturday. A second rock landed on a coffee table, breaking a glass top.

On Sunday evening, William Karch, building and grounds head of Princeton High School, received a report of two boys breaking windows at the John Witherspoon School. In checking the high school, Ptl. Bernard Lenhardt discovered a 10-by-40-inch window on the north wall of the gym broken, another window in an outer classroom building and two doorway security lights.

The boys were then observed breaking three lighting fixtures in the entryway to the John Witherspoon School. Residents of the Township, the youths, 14 and 15, were turned over to Sgt. Pinelli.

Want to Buy an Ad?

You may now advertise your wares, whatever they may be, in Princeton's two Loop Buses.

Suburban Transit has just given permission to the bus system to sell inside bus advertising to local businesses. The cost is $7.50 per week, which includes a sign card in each of the two buses. For $50 you can advertise from now through May 28, when the two buses stop for the summer.

Signs must fit the display holders in the buses — 11 by 28 inches — and they may be made of poster board or any similar kind of paper. Anybody who needs help, in art work or lettering, may call Sydney Taggart, Loop Bus coordinator, at 921-9513. She'll give you the names of art students at Princeton High School.

Princeton's Loop buses are just short of the 2,000-riders-per-week mark, hovering just above 1,900.

Borough police also report that a pane of glass in a front door of a North Stanworth Drive resident and that of a neighbor had been broken Monday — both apparently by BB guns.

LAWN TRACTOR STOLEN

Valued at $2310. A 16 H.P. lawn tractor with a 42-inch cutting blade, valued at $2310, was reported stolen last week from the garage of Dr. Jorge L. Bascara, 164 Heather Lane.

Dr. Bascara discovered the tractor missing on Sunday night and had last seen it the previous day. Police, who said the garage was unlocked, believed a truck was used to haul the tractor away.

A Princeton resident was out $195 after someone stole all four hubcaps from his 1976 Thunderbird. His car had been parked last week in the Princeton Theological Seminary lot at Stockton and Library Place.

In one of two campus thefts, a stereo receiver was stolen between 5 and 7:30 p.m. from a student's room in the Princeton Inn College. A screen over a window had been cut by the thief.

Between 6 and 11 p.m., someone climbed a vine to enter an unlocked window five and one-half feet above the ground in Brown Hall on the Seminary campus. Taken from the ransacked room was a $350 stereo receiver. Police said the window was partially concealed by trees.

TWO BURGLARIES FAIL
In Township. Two intruders who had broken into Township homes last week were frightened off before they were able to steal anything.

Police report that Thomas F. Bullock, 234 Dodds Lane, was resting in his bedroom early Friday afternoon when an intruder opened his door. Upon seeing Mr. Bullock, he ran down the stairs and fled out the rear door.

The suspect was described as white, 5-9, with dark shoulder-length hair, wearing a red, ski-type jacket. He had entered the house by breaking a pane of glass and reaching in to unlock the rear door.

Two days earlier, John L. Johnson, 540 Ewing Avenue, apparently frightened off a burglar when he returned home at 8:30 in the evening. Mr. Johnson told police that he had discovered his bedroom completely ransacked and a pillow case on the floor containing jewelry and personal papers. He had been away for an hour.

Police report entry was gained by prying a rear sliding door. Ptl. Peter Savalli investigated.

Borough police report the theft of a $59 clock radio and $79 tape recorder between 8:05 and 8:55 Monday morning from a second floor bedroom of a Jefferson Road home.

A pane of glass in a rear door was broken to get inside. Police add that a man was sleeping in the house at the time.

650 HOUSES PLANNED

On Northern Tract. No "House Beautiful" pictures yet, but lots of in-depth work on soil, topography, vegetation, geology, drainage, traffic and the housing market itself -- that's the homework so far for Dravo Corporation's plans to build 600 to 650 housing units on the 230 acres Dravo owns in the northern part of the Township.

The land was bought last April from Karl D. Pettit of Ridgeview Road (Mr. Pettit's middle name is Dravo) and it is being developed by Gibbs and Hill, Inc., a planning and architecture firm which is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Dravo.

The acreage is irregular in shape and touches Cherry Valley Road on the north and State Road on the east. It is bisected by Ridgeview and Cherry Hill, and through the eastern portion runs a ghostly road rough-graded by a previous developer who developed only financial troubles and finally moved on.

The 600 or so houses will be divided into two categories. About 80 percent of the units will be attached -- perhaps two together, or three to five grouped with similar units around a court. The remaining 15-20 percent will be single-family detached houses.

Bruce McDonnell of Dravo, told a press conference last week that the attached units will be in two groups -- from $50,000 to $70,000 in price, and from $70,000 to $90,000. Detached houses will also be in two groups, from $65,000 to $85,000 and from $85,000 to $150,000.

"Those are 1976 prices," he said with a smile.

Market studies have shown Dravo, he said, that there is no longer a strong demand for the big traditional Princeton home -- "but we will include a few." His firm sees the most demand at each end of the life cycle, he said, with young executive families, and couples whose children have grown and left home, forming the biggest markets.

In meetings with abutting neighbors of the project and with what Mr. McDonnell called "public interest groups," like the League of Women Voters, the Middlesex-Somerset-Mercer Regional Study Council, Dravo has explained in detail its land-use studies. These meetings have been held in basement rooms at 3 Spring Street where three walls are covered with explanatory maps.

Steve Gutman, for the Dravo firm, said Dravo had made intensive analyses based on precepts laid down by planner Ian McHarg. Mr. Gutman's maps show degree of slope, depth to bedrock, "erodability" of the site, forest areas, traffic patterns and proposed sewer lines that would connect to Princeton's River Road plant.

A final map of overlays, Mr. Gutman explained, shows which areas in the acreage have the greatest limitations. He said there are four or five areas in the plot which he called "development zones" -- places where houses will be built.

Houses will be designed, Mr. McDonnell said, according to the character of the land.

VOLUNTEERS SOUGHT

For Homemaker Service. Princeton Community Homemaker - Home Health Aides Service is seeking additional volunteers for the Volunteer Friendly Visitor Program.

This free community program, sponsored by Princeton Community Homemaker - Home Health Aide Service, a member agency of the United Fund, represents a continued effort by the agency to meet the needs of homebound individuals in the community.

At present, there are 12 Physical and Mental Health, volunteers who visit one hour a week, but this number is insufficient to meet growing demands for this service.

The volunteer visits individuals of any age, who because of life circumstances, chronic illness or physical handicaps are alone and would like companionship. The volunteer visits for about one hour a week and may chat, read aloud, play simple games and in general be a friend. When possible, the visitor and those being visited are matched, based upon similar interests.

A training course for new visitors will be held on April 5, 8, 12 and 15, from 7:30 - 9:30 p.m. at the Council of Community Services office, 221 Witherspoon Street. Designed to impart knowledge that will help make visits more rewarding for all, it will include such topics as Understanding People and Problems of the Homebound, Social and Cultural Aspects of Aging, Physical and Mental Health, the Dynamics of a Friendly Visit and Community Resources. Speakers will be Mrs. Catherine Phillips, director of PCHS; Mrs. Ellen Boneparth, coordinator of The Volunteer Friendly Visitor program; Mrs. Linda Misel, psychiatric social worker; Mrs. Jocelyn Helm, director of the Senior Resource Center; Miss Eileen Connelley, psychiatric social worker; and Mrs. Janet Pearson, Director of the Council of Community Services.

Those interested who can spare an hour a week, perhaps a lunch hour, should contact Princeton Community Homemaker - Home Health Aide Service at 924-5862 between 9 and 3 weekdays. Training sessions are open to any person interested in visiting the homebound.

CONFERENCE PLANNED
On Social Service. State Senator Anne C. Martindell of Princeton will be one of the principal speakers at a conference on "The Plight of American Social Institutions" to be held in the Woodrow Wilson School on April 2-3. Sen. Martindell, who will deliver the concluding address at 4 on Saturday, has been a member of the N.J. Senate Nursing Home Commission, of the board of managers of the N.J. State Diagnostic Center, Menlo Park, and of the association of the N.J. Neuro-Psychiatric Institute.

Designed to provide those involved in social service and social action programs with a perspective on the institutions where they work, the conference will provide a forum in which participants may discuss current proposals for reform with people immediately involved in the study or administration of institutions.

The keynote address will be delivered on Friday, April 2, at 8 p.m. in the auditorium by David J. Rothman, professor of history at Columbia University. The third major address will be "Monuments and Mores: The Origins of Institutional Form in the Late Enlightenment" delivered by Anthony Vidler, associate professor of architecture and urban planning here, at 1 on Saturday.

Sen. Anne Martindell

Eleven panel discussions, moderated by Princeton undergraduates, will make up the balance of the conference. The panelists will include institutional administrators, state officials, university faculty members and former inmates or residents of various institutions.

Lunch will be served at Cloister Inn, Prospect Avenue, at a cost of $1 for those who register in the morning. For further information or reservations, call 452-3049.

NEW COURSES OFFERED

For Spring by YWCA. Courses in wide variety for the spring season are being offered by the YWCA, which serves not only Princeton but communities within the United Fund area that include Cranbury, East Windsor, Griggstown, Hightstown, Kingston, Montgomery, Plainsboro, Rocky Hill, West Windsor, and adjacent areas of Hopewell, Lawrence and South Brunswick townships.

The YWCA points out that it is a place where women can develop their potential, examine their values and develop leadership in a supportive climate. Becoming a member enables women to participate in programs, serve as a leader, further the YWCA purpose and support its program.

Pre-schoolers are encouraged to develop both artistically and physically through a variety of programs, either for them alone or shared with their mothers. Grade school programming continues the learning and exploring of new talents, interests and skills, along with group participation and the feeling of sharing with other girls.

Teen women may become involved in the YWCA with a wide variety of expanded opportunities available to them. Designed to foster their social, emotional and recreational development, the programming is flexible and tailored to the needs and interests of each group.

Because the YWCA believes that a wide range in ages helps add new dimensions to its adult programming, women over 60 are urged to join in one or more of the many activities available to them. Membership fees are reduced by half for senior women and many programs are offered to them free of charge or at a reduced fee.

There are a number of optional programs available in the Health, Physical Education and Recreation department for each age, degree of ability and area of interest. Many women find that they are participants in various physical education programs almost every day of the week, whereas others are interested in a weekly health and fitness program, gymnastics, tennis or a swim.

A brochure outlines the more than 130 courses and programs available for Spring, and registration will be held Saturday from 9 to 3 or Monday from 9 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. Those who have not received a brochure in the mail, or wish further information, should call the YWCA, 924-4825, ext. 13.

THIRD SESSION MONDAY

Of Children's History Project. Old beams, bricks, nails, and the building of colonial houses will be the topic for young historians on Monday at 3:30 when the Children's History Project holds its third meeting. Children from 6 to 16 and interested adults (volunteer parents are welcome) will assemble at the Public Library and walk to the library's former home at Bainbridge House.

Those who can do so are asked to bring along paper and pencil or crayons to record their impressions in words or images after visiting the house. These will be collected and may eventually form a book about Princeton, written and illustrated by children.

The continuing series of Monday afternoon workshops and walking tours will include a visit to the Delaware and Raritan Canal, an introduction to some of Princeton's historic tombstones, ghosts, and burying grounds, and a look at Nassau Hall. For further information, call Callie Connor at 924-6885 or Anne Reeves at 921-7185.

TWELVE ARE FINED

In Traffic Court. Twelve Princeton area residents were fined Monday in Borough traffic court - half of them for speeding.

Speeders were Nancy Eills, Journey's End Lane, $15; Morton Barrish, Research

Park, $15; June F. Tipton, 44 Merritt Drive, Lawrenceville, $16; Teresa Raamont, 283 Westcott Road, $19; Kingsley Gallup, Montgomery Township, $16 and Michael Zorochin, 69 Wiggins Street, $40. Mr. Zorochin must also undergo a driver's re-examination.

Timothy Murphy, 90 Westcott Road, paid two fines: $25 for careless driving, $20 as an unlicensed driver. Careless driving also cost Masahiro Suzuki, 2413 Graduate College, $25, and Michael Stryker, 6 Fisher Avenue, $30.

Others: John Hildago, 209 Nassau Street, $20, no license plates; Camela Potter, 255 Mather Avenue, Penns Neck, $15, red light; and Attilia Mastroianni, 346 Ewing Street, $25, stop sign.

In Borough criminal court, Gerald Hall, 44 Birch Avenue, was held for Grand Jury action in $5,000 bail. He has been charged by police with robbery and assault with a dangerous weapon.

Edward S. Dugger, 33, no known address, was found guilty on four separate charges of creating a disturbance while under the influence of alcohol. He was sentenced to 10 days in the Mercer County Workhouse on each, the four to run concurrently. He will be treated under the County's detoxification program.

TWO DRIVERS INJURED

In Single Car Mishaps. Two 18-year old drivers were injured last week in separate, single-car accidents.

Elizabeth A. Lochanko of Cherry Hill received lacerations of the face after her car ran off Faculty Road early Friday evening and struck a tree. She had just exited from Elm Lane on the Princeton University Campus.

Ptl. Robert Nielsen reported that Ms. Lochanko could not remember the incidents leading up to the accident because of her injuries.

Elaine Schuman, director of the Mercer County Division of Consumer Affairs, will discuss how to be a careful consumer, what laws protect the consumer, what questions to ask of door-to-door salesmen, what to consider before signing contracts, and seasonal consumer problems. Budget is "Misleading"

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Our two mayors together with representatives of Borough and Township governments expressed shock and discouragement during Thursday's meeting when they found that the School Board had tied up huge sums in contracts and commitments before Princeton citizens had a chance to vote on the school budget.

Although representatives of both governments labored earnestly to cut at least a fraction of the waste from the $8 million budget, the School Board defiantly refused to discuss cutting a single dollar.

The tangled, secretive and misleading character of the School Board's budget barred Who cares? access to information which Obviously, not the School Committee and Council Board! Is there any wonder members urgently needed, that youngsters from civilized Instead of offering help and clarification, certain mem- bers of the School Board, as manners flawed, their minds well as many highly - paid administrators, carried on like unruly street urchins. They chatted and guffawed. They presented a united front against the municipal authorities.

In the midst of this din, municipal representatives were trying to make fiscal sense out of the Board's nonsense. Is this the sort of people we trust with educating young Americans? Is there any wonder that the tenured and unionized employees, accountable to no one, ignore the purpose for which they were hired and concentrate, instead, on higher wages, costlier benefits, shorter work hours and excessive paid leave?

If "the kids" learn little or nothing in basic skills, so what? If equipment and supplies are purchased without careful accountability, so what? If some buildings are dirty and abused (despite enormous maintenance charges), so what? Who cares? Obviously, not the School Committee and Council Board! Is there any wonder members urgently needed, that youngsters from civilized Instead of offering help and clarification, certain mem- bers of the School Board, as manners flawed, their minds values confused?

It seems strange that we have little or no trouble in finding first - rate people to serve on our two municipal governing bodies. Why can't we get their equivalent to serve on the School Board? True, we frequently get one or two, but never a majority.

Perhaps rational and prudent people are reluctant to associate themselves with school matters, where murky practices in job assignments, purchases, and allocation of funds have prevailed: where employee "bumping order" supersedes competence; where school employees are answerable; if at all, only to the State Education Commissioner, who is, himself, an "educator"; beholden only to the union, whose "advice and consent" he does not oppose.

Disinfecting the public school industry will take enormous courage from all sectors of citizens. So did the American Revolution, so did Watergate. Surely, we won't cry "impossible!"

MARY C. PLANTINGA
123 Autumn Hill Road

A Matter of Viewpoint.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

It is true that I have not been following all the news coming out of our state legislature or the courts, but I am sure that somehow and somewhere it has been decreed that pants are now proper dress for the female as well as the male. Most of us have accepted the finding of "ain't" in the dictionaries, but I am surprised that the traditionalists have not been more vocal against this new "pants are for all persons" precedent set in our town.

The only alternative to accepting this new concept of dress is to acknowledge, with chagrin, that our town fathers (and mothers, of course) are guilty of flagrant male chauvanism (our town mothers guilty of being renegades).

This appeal to you, dear Mr. or Ms. Editor, is prompted by my having driven down Washington Road and seeing the sign warning of a student street-crossing. All the older signs show two figures with one in pants and one in skirts. At the risk of seeming in-delicade, may I say I noticed the silhouette of the single figure on the sign on Washington Road, represented a rear view - a clear issue-straddling. However, I must admit that, in these times, it is hard to make a definite judgment from either view.

Perhaps your research staff might establish for all to know the source of this precedent.

As a husband and a father of a daughter, may I hasten to voice my neutrality in this explosive issue. I must confess that I come from a generation that perfected the wolf whistle, and from the era when merely a neat ankle would call for a puckering of lips in appreciation.

IT'S NEW

To Us

NEW OWNER MOVES IN
To Strawberry Patch. After a short winter closing, Pennington's delightful pink gift shop, The Strawberry Patch, re-opened last week under the enthusiastic new ownership of Julie Schreiber.

Julie, who has two children away at school, is representative of the increasing number of women who are returning to work. She told us she decided on her own shop because "I wanted the full responsibility. Always before in my jobs and at home someone else has been ultimately responsible."

She certainly seems to be decisive. The day after learning the shop was for sale

she went to New York to look at wholesale gift lines; and, finding these acceptable, she immediately bought the business.

However, she plans to change the shop only slightly. She said, "You probably remember Mrs. Graham, the Victorian lady who previously was here. Well, I'm only slightly more contemporary."

All along, one of Strawberry Patch's best lines has been its handmade aprons. Many people still love them, and it is next to impossible to find an attractive, well-made version. One of the prettiest ones is long and white with a border pattern of embroidered strawberries. Julie says of this "I can just see it over pink patio pants," and so can we.

Other styles include a short conventional apron in a salmon pink tie-dye fabric from the Virgin Islands; a long bib-front one in a batik print with small florettes in several shades of blue; or a short bib-front wrapped apron in a natural cotton printed with small baskets of strawberries (cute enough to double as a jumper) $6 to $15.

You'll also continue to find children's toys (such as dolls, Raggedy Ann hand puppets, magnetic checkers, an adorable pink bean bag pig or a brightly framed picture of the owl and the pussycat in a pea green boat) as well as a carefully chosen group of wedding gifts.

Perhaps the nicest aspect of these two areas is the reasonable prices. Many of the toys are in the $2 to $5 range, while the wedding gifts are below $20. For instance, there is a flat white scallop shell that would be an unusual hors d'oeuvre plate or an oval casserole decorated with softly colored vegetables.

New Selections. Naturally, Julie has included her own new selections, and most intriguing is a handsome group of contemporary glass cookware that is perfect for microwave ovens or Corning ranges. The pieces include a tea infuser (which doubles as a pitcher), a butter warmer and soup mugs, $4 to $16.

A particular favorite of ours was a set of six dessert plates, each with a different whimsical imaginary horticultural specimen. A lily with a head of bgers is called "Tigerlillia Terribilia," while a green stem covered with small pink pigs is, "Piggiwiggia Pyramidalis," $15 the set.

In addition to the aprons, you'll see other hand-made items such as ties, quilted patchwork tote bags, braided wreaths and sweaters (Irish knit ones can be ordered for $35).

Depending upon the fabric, these wreaths have become a year-round item, and Strawberry Patch has at least two that are just right for Easter. One contains pink gingham, lavender calico and a small floral print, while the other is made of green and yellow fabrics - and either would be pretty on a door or filled with flowers and eggs for a centerpiece, $10 and $12.50.

And, if you have a yen for strawberries, this is the shop for you. There are plastic glasses (some real enough to fool you into thinking they are glass) dessert plates, mugs, a jam jar (for strawberry only, of course,) and a pad of memo paper - all with a strawberry motif, $1.35 and up.

NEW OWNER IN PENNINGTON: Smiling Julie Schreiber is the new owner of Pennington's Strawberry Patch, a shop specializing in gifts from small toys to wedding presents including several handmade lines.

Julie has brought another new direction to the Strawberry Patch with a selection of religious gifts. Although the choice is limited, Julie views this as an important part of her store because she feels a great many people are involved with Christ today and that there should be a place to buy something commemorating a baptism or confirmation.

There is a nice group of silver crosses which Julie found in the Virgin Islands and stained glass window ornaments by Dolores Swanson that include softly colored angels, a nativity scene, or the dove of peace, from $4.50.

The Strawberry Patch, 21 West Delaware Avenue in Pennington, is open Tuesday through Saturday from 10 until 5.

OUT NASSAU STREET

To R.F.D. in Kingston. Just a short run out Nassau Street brings you to the town of Kingston, which by the way is older than Princeton, and thus has a Main Street dotted with lovely old homes.

In one of these, you'll find R.F.D. Ltd., an attractive small shop with a constantly changing group of gifts and ladies' clothing. Until now you may not have been aware of this shop tucked inside its 18th century home, but recently owner, Frederick Scudder, glassed in part of the front porch, creating an attractive display window which he hopes will tempt you.

Recently arrived for spring is a new Hawaiian line called Kahata which contains matching pants and shirt jackets in south seas cotton prints, such as a leaf pattern in many tones of deep blue. The pants have a fly front and the jackets are nicely detailed with welting and top-stitching, $49.50 for the blue one.

From this same company is a long-sleeved cotton knit shirtwaist dress in a brown and white animal print; or a long t-shirt dress (also cotton knit) in a bold print of hot pink and orange with splashes of green that would be a knock-out on any summer night, both are just under $50.

Acrylic, T-shirts, Dresses. Going in another geographical direction, Mr. Scudder has also chosen the French Partout acrylic knit t-shirts and dresses. The dresses are available in a green, navy or yellow double width stripe on white in either a short t-shirt version or a long v-necked long-sleeved dress. Both styles cost $26 and come in small, medium or large sizes.

Nancy Greer's dresses are a familiar line here at R.F.D. Ltd., and this spring we liked her sophisticated two-piece dress in a black and white print that reminded us of a line drawing. The gently gathered skirt and small ruffle edged long-sleeved top are made of a polyester that flows with the wearer and accented with a narrow black

Princeton Plans to Honor PAUL ROBESON

Singer
Actor
Athlete
Scholar

Paul Robeson, who was born in Princeton, ignored by Princeton and scorned by Princeton, will be honored by Princeton in a series of celebrating events starting next Tuesday and ending a week from Friday -- April 9, which would have been Paul Robeson's 78th birthday. He died January 24.

Singer-actor-athlete-scholar, Paul Robeson was born in the house on the corner of Witherspoon and Green Streets. His father, the Rev. William Robeson, was pastor of the Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Robeson's mother, Sabra, was a slave on a plantation in North Carolina, and her portrait and name are part of a stained glass window in the Witherspoon church.

Because the family was black, the Robeson sons were not allowed to attend the Princeton High School of that day, and went to Trenton to high school. By the time young Paul was high school age, the family had moved to Somerville and he graduated from high school there.

At Rutgers, he made Phi Beta Kappa in his junior year, was class valedictorian and Rutgers' first All-American football player. He was twice named All-American. He also won varsity letters in baseball, basketball and track, besides football.

After receiving a law degree from Columbia University, he turned to acting and singing, and throughout the 1920s and 1930s was famous throughout the world for his work in the theatre. His "Othello" won unanimous critical acclaim when it was produced in the United States in the war years of the 1940s.

Increasingly, over the years, he spoke his indignation at the injustices suffered by black people. After visits to Russia, he was equally outspoken in his praise of the Soviet Union, and soon he was being hissed, booed and picketed when he sang or spoke in public. In the late '40s, he was caught in the anti-Communist hysteria of the McCarthy era, and in 1947 was summoned to appear before the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

His passport was revoked, and in 1958, when it was finally restored as a result of Supreme Court ruling, he and his wife went to England and lived there for some years in a kind of self-imposed exile.

He once referred to Princeton as "a college town of southern aristocrats," and when he returned to his home town in 1942 as "Othello," he stayed in New Brunswick, and not in Princeton.

"In those days," one Princeton resident has suggested, "I don't suppose they would have let him stay at the Princeton Inn."

But now, two months after Robeson's death, Princeton is about to honor him. In fact, celebrations were being planned for his 78th birthday when he was still living.

Part of the commemoration will be changing the name of a street to his name, and erecting a statue in his honor near his birthplace.

Nassau Presbyterian Church, known as the First Presbyterian Church when the Robesons lived in Princeton, has this to say about the celebrations:

"Paul Robeson died before he could know of these appreciative gestures of recognition from his native Princeton for the achievements of a life that was very special and often misunderstood."

Tuesday, March 30, 8 p.m.

"Requiem," by the contemporary French composer Maurice Durufle. The Princeton High School choir under William R. Trego; Nancianne Parrella, organist; Elizabeth Lamb, cellist; Susan Robinson, soprano; David Arnold baritone.

Howard B. Waxwood Jr., who knew Robeson as a boy in Princeton, will speak. Edler G. Hawkins of the Princeton Theological Seminary faculty and Wallace M. Alston Jr. of Nassau Presbyterian, will speak also.

Sunday, April 4, 10:30 a.m.

Communion Service
Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church
"Meditation on Themes
from the Life of Paul Robeson,"

Geddes Hanson, preaching, with Elders J. Douglas Brown, Howard Waxwood and others, assisting.

"Paul Robeson Day in Princeton"

The Princeton Youth Center, under the direction of John Bailey, will sponsor a special birthday celebration at 8 p.m. in the John Witherspoon School auditorium. In its announcement, the Youth Center says, "The entire Princeton community is invited to this celebration to help the Youth Center appropriately recognize one of Princeton's greatest former residents, and one of America's great men."
The full program of the Paul Robeson concert will be announced next week.

'VILLAGE' TO OPEN At Mercer Mall. The area's newest concept in retailing, a mall-within-a-mall called Provinceline Village, will open next month in the new Mercer Mall on U.S. 1, Richard E. Borowsky, president of Independence Village, developer and operator, has announced.

Provinceline Village will be a "community" of more than 30 individually-operated specialty shops. Its selectively-leased retail units will feature personal and home-accessory merchandise, apparel, giftware and selected services, along with a variety of food and refreshments. Styled architecturally and in layout as an old-time village center, the facility is fully enclosed for the comfort of strollers and shoppers along its "streets."

"People who have heard about our 'Village' tend to form a concept of it based on other retail centers they have seen or read about, but ours really is different from anything else in this region," Mr. Borowsky emphasized.

"A hallmark of our Village shops, because they are small and owner-operated, will be individual attention to shoppers and unhurried personal service — this itself being perhaps as much a revival of the 'old days' as the physical environment we're evoking with design," he added.

The Village contains 10,000 square feet. When fully completed and occupied in April, it is expected to contain 32 individual retail shops. Some of the "shopkeepers" will be open for business in their respective units during coming weeks. All shops will be completed on approximately the same schedule as the main opening phase of Mercer Mall itself.

Provinceline Village is situated near the angle of the L-shaped main building of Mercer Mall. Entry to the Village will be through either of two doorways from the canopied main sidewalk of the Mall.

The Village derives its name from historic Provinceline Road which extends westward from U.S. Route 1 at the north end of the Mercer Mall site in Lawrence Township. The Village's shops will carry a diverse selection of merchandise including home accessories and specialty furniture, art and sculpture, imported and domestic giftware, leather craft, plants, jewelry and clockmaking, cosmetics, and riding equipment.

Service centers will include picture framing, art restoration, china repairing, and a travel agency. Food service and sales will include a confectionary, a cheese shop, coffee and pastries, and fast food service.

CONTRACT AWARDED

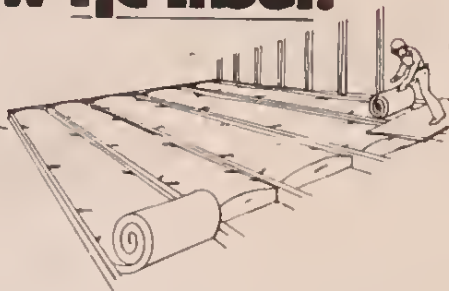

To Base Ten Systems. Myles Kranzler, president of Base Ten Systems, 3828 Quakerbridge Road, has announced that the company has received initial funding authorization for a major classified program.

Assuming satisfactory completion of the design and development phase and continued government funding, the projected contract value will exceed $25 million over the next eight to ten years, Mr. Kranzler said.

OTHER PAPERS will run your classifieds for half price, or for nothing if they do not sell. In TOWN TOPICS, you'll find more ads and better results.

News Of The CHURCHES

STATEMENT ENDORSED

Objecting to Anti-Zion Resolution. The executive board of the Princeton Interfaith Council has endorsed the Princeton Pastors' Association statement objecting to the United Nations' anti-Zionism resolution passed in November.

Pointing out that the major concern of P.I.C. is the brotherly relationship between all mankind, the Rev. Leon Gipson of Mount Pisgah A.M.E. Church and president of the council, said that the council particularly objected to the negative aspect of the resolution, and supported the P.P.A. statement that it "does not help the cause of peace or justice in the Middle East and indeed hinders it by opening up and reinforcing old anti-Jewish hates and prejudices."

The Rev. Mr. Gipson added that the rights and wrongs of the Middle Eastern controversy are so complex and intertwined that disentanglement or assessment defy a simple statement or solution. P.I.C. and P.P.A. "view this struggle with compassion for the peoples of that land and for Arabs and Jews in our community." They would emphasize that a solution requires not inflammatory propaganda and rhetoric, but sober proposals to help each side modify positions that are unacceptable to the other.

CHURCH NOT SPARED: An hour and a half before a scheduled organ recital in the Pennington Methodist Church to dedicate a new organ, one third of the church's slate roof was blown away. Interior ceiling also suffered structural damage but workmen were at the site, starting repairs, Monday morning.

interpreter of Schweitzer, he is the author of more than 20 books in English, Dutch and German. He is considered a liberal theologian who, until recently opposed to the new orthodoxy, has now moved toward a creative interpretation of the traditional language of faith.

No stranger to this country, Dr. Buri was a visiting lecturer at Drew University in 1966-67 and spoke at Princeton during that period. In December 1971 he visited Princeton Seminary to lecture on "The Self and the Nothing."

PROGRAM FOR DEAF SET

At Seminary. Princeton Theological Seminary invites the hearing public to share the world of the deaf on Tuesday and Wednesday with a chapel service and a play in which the spoken word will be synchronized with the sign language employed by the non-hearing.

Addressing the 10 a.m. service of worship in the Seminary's Miller Chapel will be Ms. Betty Stewart of the Marie H. Katzenbach School for the Deaf, West Trenton. Ms. Stewart, administrative supervisor of residential services at Katzenbach, has taught many sign language courses in area colleges and churches. Several girls enrolled at the school will join the Seminary Choir in singing and signing a special anthem. Raymond A. Meester, a second-year student in the Master of Divinity course and co-ordinator of the two-day program will lead the service.

"Oliver Twist," a drama adapted from the Dickens novel, will be presented in the Campus Center auditorium on Wednesday, at 7. The actors, all junior members of the National Association of the Deaf and students at the M.H.K. School, will deliver their lines in sign language, while readers interpret for the hearing audience. The director, Mr. Thomas Gradnauer, himself deaf, is a social studies teacher at the school and co-sponsor of the Junior N.A.D. group.

As background for the service and play a sign language exhibit will be on display in cases in the foyer of Speer Library, Mercer Road at Library Place, March 13-April 3.

COMPOSERS TO PRODUCE

To Lead Services Wednesday. Proclamation Productions, otherwise known as composer Donald Marsh and composer-pastor Richard Avery, will conduct a chapel service, a workshop and an evening worship service in the Miller Chapel on the Seminary campus on Wednesday at 10, 3 and 8:45. All of the presentations are open to the public.

Mr. Avery has been since 1959 pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Port Jervis, New York. Donald Marsh, a composer, performer and leader of "Creative Worship" workshops through the United States and abroad, is the church's director of arts and Christian education. On the national level he is a member of the United Presbyterian Advisory Council of Discipleship and Worship.

Together the two have written ten songbooks, including "Hymns Hot and Carols Cool," and produced two widely popular albums of religious music. Their first major choral work, the musical "Godsend," was released in 1974. Four Avery-Marsh songs are included in the new Armed Forces hymnal and choral settings of more than 30 of their songs, by several eminent composers, have been released under the Agape label.

LECTURE SATURDAY

By Christian Scientist. Miss Curtis is the chairman of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship.

Her lecture will examine the teachings of Christ Jesus and the reason he states for his human ministry: "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly." Free child care will be available at the church, 16 Bayard Lane, during the lecture. No collection will be taken.

$2.50 will be requested.

The 68-voice Hope College Chapel Choir of Holland, Mich. will present a concert of sacred music Friday at 8 at the Blawenburg Reformed Church, Route 518, Blawenburg. In its 23 years as a touring concert group, the choir has performed at Radio City Music Hall, the Hollywood Bowl and at the White House.

The Morning Star Church of God in Christ will hold a smorgasbord Dinner Saturday at noon at the church, 43½ Birch Avenue. For $3 one may have barbecue spareribs.

The Lenten worship service Thursday at 12:10 at the Nassau Presbyterian Church will be conducted by the Reverend Kenneth S. Dannehauser, pastor of Christ Congregation. Mrs. Mary Krimmel, Nassau Church organist, will play a recital of Lenten music at noon.

The annual spring rummage sale sponsored by the United Methodist Women of Princeton United Methodist Church is scheduled for Thursday, 9 to 5, and Friday, 9 until 3 in the lower level of the church, corner of Nassau Street and Vandeventer Avenue. Again this year there will be the popular Treasure Trove Room, featuring merchandise of high quality. Beginning at noon Friday, household items will be reduced to half price, and shoppers may fill a bag with clothing and soft goods for only $1.

Theodore K. Rabb, Associate Professor of History at Princeton University, will speak on "The Jews of Europe in the Age of Shakespeare" at the Jewish Center, 435 Nassau Street, on Sunday at 8. Prof. Rabb, who specializes in early modern European history, will describe the life and thought of European Jews of Shakespeare's time as seen through the eyes of an English traveler.

The public is cordially invited to this talk, part of the Sunday evening lecture series arranged by the Adult Education Committee of the Center.

The Shalom Singers of the First Baptist Church of Annandale, Va. will present a vesper service at the Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church at 5 on Sunday. The Mercer County Right to Life announces a new meeting place for their meeting, Wednesday at 8 in the Community Room of the Yardville National Bank on the corner of Whitehorse-Mercerville Road and Kuser Road in Hamilton Township. The business meeting will begin at 7:30.

Pharmacy Footnotes

by Mel Atlas, Reg. Pharm

The sensory nerves of the skin are distributed unevenly all over the skin area in spots, and lie at different depths in the skin. For example, if you move the point of a pencil over your skin very lightly, you stimulate only the nerves of touch. These nerve endings are close to the surface of the skin in the region of the hair sockets. The finger tips, the forehead, and the tip of the tongue contain abundant nerve endings which respond to touch. Nerve endings which respond to pressure lie deeper within the skin.

HIGHLIGHT OF THE WEEK

FOUR ACRE HIDEAWAY

At the end of a winding lane on a wooded, brook-encircled setting is certainly one of the most unusual houses in the area. A brick and dark wood two-story with extensive paneling throughout, the house combines a bit of the garrison Colonial look with touches of the contemporary and the feel of a hunting lodge. The unique layout includes spacious living room with fieldstone fireplace and big dining extension, den, good kitchen, handsome stepdown family room with fireplace, area with hookups for a small kitchen, and bedroom above; 2 more extra-large bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths; and screened porch. Out-buildings include small barn, 3 car shed, dog house (and run), while the secluded but not remote grounds are enhanced by a fine swimming pool, which is enhanced in turn by plantings of English boxwood and no less than 70 rose bushes! $137,000

THE RETIREMENT COMMUNITY WITH T.L.C.
Tender Loving Care
Twining Village in Historic Bucks County
Tomorrow's Living Community Today

Location and Setting
Twining Village is located in Holland, Pa. near historic Newtown, Bucks County, on a beautiful 45 acre wooded tract of land invaded by a picturesque rambling creek in a suburban residential area on Middle Holland Road, a few miles north of Philadelphia, a few miles west of I-95, and a few more miles south of Washington Crossing—most handy to some truly fascinating points of interest such as New Hope, Lambertville, Peddler's Village, Princeton, Neshaminy and Oxford Valley Malls, thus offering a wide variety of exposure to cultural centers, shops, theaters, restaurants, etc.

Construction of Buildings
Twining will be constructed of concrete block and brick masonry, making it more fire-resistant than the less expensive all-wood "California" type construction. Our residents receive quality construction throughout the complex, thereby exceeding the strict building code of prestigious Northampton Township. This type of construction will prevail in not only the 80 bed Health Center, but also in the Community Center, dining facilities, and all 220 residential units. Our most outstanding feature will be fully-covered and glass-enclosed walkways, allowing you to traverse throughout the entire community, one end to the other, without being exposed to inclement weather, step-climbing (there are none), nor attempting any more than the slightest incline. Truly, this is an engineering feat, but what else would you expect from your builder, who is local and has earned his reputation by constructing over five hundred custom homes in the Twining Village area.

to you, but your personal laundry can be done for you by arrangement. Full security and maintenance of the buildings and gardens are provided by Twining's staff. Green-thumbers can garden their own terrace and get an early start in our greenhouse. Several acres of open ground have been set aside for any interested potential farmers. There will be regularly scheduled transportation to stores, shopping centers, and areas of daily interest.

Breakfast, lunch and dinner are prepared and served daily, in the dining room by Stouffer's. Residents make their selections from a varied menu and are free to come in at any time during the period when the dining room is open. All three meals are included in the monthly charge, but those who prefer to make their own breakfast or lunch (or both) may do so with a reduction in the monthly fee. We do request your joining us for dinner. There is also a meal credit for residents away from Twining Village for a month or more. Special diets are prepared when ordered by a physician.

Twining Village, a not for profit community, is looking for residents that possess the ability for enjoying a long, happy, and healthy life. Twining Village is a Total Life Community featuring, as always, TLC; with the Tender Loving Care involving complete security and the ultimate in health care.

There is also a gift and sundry shop, snack area, beauty salon, and barber shop. Extra meal servings are available, also over night visitors quarters. Charter vehicles are available for group activities. There is a library, theatre-auditorium, lounges with kitchens for private parties, ceramics, weaving, woodworking, jewelry, and fine art workshops. Indoor recreational facilities are in evidence.

Twining's WTVT TV channel—for and by the residents, with cable to see New York stations. A community newspaper will inform you of all events such as small theatre companies, musical groups, lecturers. Outdoors are for birdwatchers and athletic endeavors.

Total Lifetime Medical Care with T.L.C.
In addition to independent apartment living, three levels of care are provided to Twining's members. Intermediate-care facilities furnish practical nursing care for members who are somewhat physically limited, and skilled nursing care is provided, together with custodial care, in the Health Center, as required.

Nurses are on 24-hour duty, with doctors of every specialty on immediate call, either from the Health Center or from your own apartment. A clinic with a full staff of physicians is always available. Our own pharmacy will supply your prescription needs. Hospital care, if necessary, has been arranged for at two nearby hospitals.

All of these benefits will be provided for you through our health program, which is offered at no extra cost, thereby enabling you to enjoy complete independence and security with dignity.

Am I Qualified?
If you are 65 years of age or older, and if your spouse is at least 62 years, then you qualify. The sale of your home or other realty may provide the membership fee and social security, pensions, investments, discontinuance of taxes and other home upkeep costs could provide the monthly fee. Remember, there will be no need to save for the future years, since Twining Village will provide all necessities of life except for your clothing needs.

Residential Accommodations designed with T.L.C.
"Complete Independence" succinctly describes your residential life-style at Twining. Quality, comfort and simplicity are evident in one and two-story residential clusters, each of which has its own gathering rooms, gardens, and recreation areas; yet all are interconnected by the subtle glass-enclosed walkways leading to all areas of Twining Village, including a lovely brook in our 14-acre forest preserve.

There are four living designed apartment types, none of which wastes one square foot of valuable space. They range in area from 490 to 980 square feet and must be seen in order to be appreciated. All apartments include a fully electric G.E. kitchen; roomy, specially-designed baths with each bedroom; air-conditioning and heating by G.E. with individually controlled wall units in each room; a computerized emergency call system covering fire, smoke, burglary, and help alarms; weatherproofed aluminum windows and storm-sash; aluminum sliding glass doors; your choice of terrace or balcony; maximum soundproofing; walk-in closets; TV master antenna outlets in each room; wall-to-wall carpets; draperies, private telephone; additional substantial storage cubicles.

Entrance fees are scaled to the sizes of the four apartment types.

Community Services
A monthly charge covers the long list of services offered by the community.

All apartments are cleaned once a week and disposals are picked up at regular intervals. Bedroom and bathroom linen are furnished and laundered weekly. Washers and dryers are available

A COMPLETE REAL ESTATE ORGANIZATION

A LOOK AT THE PAST

Among the more interesting parcels of real estate in history, the inn has always been prominent. Princeton was a popular resting spot for travelers because of its location and also for the quality of its taverns. Two of the earliest local inns were the "Hudibras" (from a satirical poem by Samuel Butler), situated at the southeasterly corner of Nassau Street and Washington Road (then College Lane), and the "Sign of the New Jersey College", on Nassau Street west of Witherspoon Street. The former establishment advertised accommodations for 40 travelers and stabling for 30 horses, and the latter was the early site of the present "Nassau Inn" and was an overnight stagecoach stop between New York and Philadelphia; sometimes as many as a dozen stages would start off each way in the morning.

Since Princeton's "society" usually entertained at home, it was transients between New York and Philadelphia who provided most of the patronage, unlike more rural areas where the local tavern was the regional social center, much like neighborhood bars are today. From early days, tavern keepers were licensed, and at first were men of highest character, but after the war licensing became more lax, with a proliferation of inns.

Before the Revolutionary War began, Princeton was a focal point for anti-British sentiment, and the town's innkeepers were staunch patriots (anyone who wasn't, left for a Loyalist climate in New York). In those days before the NFL and NCAA championships, politics was "the" topic of conversation over a serving of beer, rum, wine, whiskey or toddy. Indeed, the revolutionary fervor and "no taxation without representation" is said to have started not in legislature but at the grass roots level of inns and taverns.

Stony Brook Regional Sewer System May Cost Average Borough Family $200 Yearly in Taxes

Borough officials are having nightmares about the money home-owners will have to pay in taxes to float the new Stony Brook Regional sewer and to pay for repair of Princeton's ancient sewer lines.

You, as home-owners, may have to help reduce those costs yourself, if Princeton's Sewer Operating Committee finds your property is responsible for some of the unauthorized water leaking into Princeton's sewer pipes.

Brokaw Engineering, which has just finished probing Princeton's sewers to find the source of infiltrating water, learned that more came from homes than from any other source. Brokaw engineers found that in the very worst wet and rainy weather, 3.88 million excess gallons a day get into sewers from leaks in the pipes, broken or misaligned pipes, manholes so situated that water covers them in storms.

But even more unauthorized water-- 4 million excess gallons a day in rainy weather-- gets into the pipes from private homes.

It could be the 1890 sewer line you're connected to-- cracked beyond repair from ground water. Maybe it's the patio drain your contractor installed without bothering to tell you. It could be as much as five gallons a minute from your foundation drain.

Money Well Spent. Whatever it is, you'll be required to correct it yourself. And it's worth the expense.

Because the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority estimates an annual charge to Princeton-- Borough and Township-- of $650 per million gallons a day in sewer service. The meter clicks whether the gallons flow honestly from honest use of water and sewer facilities, or secretly from "outside" water getting into the pipes. So the patio drain you'll have to eliminate can save you-- and everybody else-- tax money in the long run.

Arthur Brokaw, head of the firm, used to be Borough engineer himself and he has a long familiarity with all these pipes. His firm estimates it will cost $1,482,795 for the rehabilitation program on Princeton's sewers. Part of that money is $302,500 which will be spent to ferret out sources of hidden water, and some of it will be used to buy a special TV camera that goes into sewer lines.

Sewer Operating Committee staff will know that a certain manhole is flooding, for example. They will park on a street and sit in the SOC truck, waiting while the camera takes its pictures. When it gets to your house, it may show that you're the one. Don't worry; you'll be notified.

Federal Aid Available. Other items in the $1,482,795 are $580,000 for replacement of whatever lines need replacing, $110,000 to reline the sewers, $70,000 to make manholes water-tight, and similar repair work.

Federal money will pay 75 percent of these costs. Originally, the state was to pay 15 percent, but Borough engineer George Olexa thinks that's probably out.

The search to find out who's contributing how much water will be done concurrently, Mr. Olexa says, with $836,000 in corrections to the lines. He expects the job to take about 18 months.

Nobody knows yet just how much this work will cost Princeton taxpayers. But there is a fairly clear picture of the costs from the new Stony Brook Regional sewer, and the two added together, make quite a sum.

Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley wanted to find out where the tax burdens fall, and he asked Mr. Olexa's office to make an "Assessment Distribution" study.

Martin Miller, assistant Borough engineer, took a random sample of 50 percent of the residential units in the Borough-- every other lot in the residential neighborhoods.

He and Mr. Olexa decided to bracket the study with $10,000 houses-- assuming there are any-- at one end and $140,000 houses at the other. Most homes in the Borough, Mr. Miller found, are assessed at $20,000 to $40,000. Of course, the Borough has had slippage since its last property revaluation in 1964, so these water and $2,500 for sewer. At the $100,000 edge, are only five houses which together pay only $8,000 in local purpose taxes.

So it's the moderate home-owners who seem to be bearing the burden. Mayor Cawley has said he fears these are the very home-owners who will be using sewers and water the most-- young families with the Borough's average of 2.46 people, earning a modest income.

"Costs will increase dramatically," Mr. Olexa says succinctly.

'A special TV camera will photograph sewer lines to determine homeowners' responsibility for unauthorized water draining into the municipal system.'

assessments are actually only 56 percent of the true market value of the houses.

Revealing Figures. Nevertheless, the engineers' graph does show that the Borough has more modestly-priced houses than the casual observer of this "affluent suburb" might guess. Within the $20,000 to $40,000 range, the study shows that most Borough home-owners have a house assessed at $30,000. The graph shows 108 such houses, which means there are probably 216, since Mr. Miller did a 50 percent sample.

These 216 houses assessed at $30,000, together pay $21,500 in local purpose taxes, $4,500 for

He points out that the average Borough taxpayer shells out $345 a year in local-purpose taxes, $67 for water and $32 for sewers.

That same home-owner, Mr. Olexa calculates, will be paying $59 a year toward operation and maintenance of the new Stony Brook regional sewer system, plus $57.20 PER PERSON toward paying off the Stony Brook bonds. (The $59 figure is "per household".)

Since the Borough has 2.46 people per household, that means another $141 per year added to the $59. It comes to $200 in annual sewer taxes for

"WINTER'S TALE"
Stratford and Back. From Stratford's American Shakespeare Festival Theatre to Princeton's McCarter and back again. That's the route for Michael Kahn's production of Shakespeare's "The Winter's Tale," which will open at McCarter this Thursday. It will play through Sunday, April 4.

It's the same production Mr. Kahn presented last summer at Stratford, and he plans to use it again at Stratford in the coming season, probably as the opener.

Mr. Kahn's Princeton title is producing director of the McCarter Theatre Company. He's also artistic director for the American Shakespeare Festival, and he likes the arrangement because Princeton's season is in, when Stratford's season is out. He also likes the chance to present what he calls a "floating acting company" working between the two centers.

SHAKESPEAREAN CLASSIC: "The Winter's Tale," directed by Michael Kahn, opens this Thursday at the McCarter with Bette Henritze as Paulina and Philip Kerr as Leontes. It will run through Sunday, April 4. (Cliff Moore Photo)

Maria Tucci will play, in this production, the dual roles of Hermione, the misunderstood queen, and her daughter, Perdita. Philip Kerr will be the jealous king Leontes, and Ian Trigger the nuisance Autolycus. Polixenes will be Curt Dawson; Bette Henritze, Paulina; William Larsen her husband Antigonus; David Haskell, Florizel; Richard Dix, the Old Shepherd and Richard Backus, the Clown. "Time" will be Powers Boothe.

"BADLANDS"

On McCarter Screen. "An important and exciting film" - that's McCarter's quote from the New York Times' film critic writing about "Badlands," which will be shown twice next Tuesday - 7 and 9 -- in the Movies-at-McCarter series.

"Badlands" was inspired by the 1958 murder spree of Charles Starkweather and his teenage girlfriend. The film is about a pair of restless young people in a South Dakota town -- a 25-year-old garbage collector and his 15-year-old girl-friend. Together, they go on a joyride through the northern tier of middle-western states. At the end, more than half a dozen people, including the girl's father, have been killed but the film is said not to be a "Bonnie and Clyde."

Director Terence Malick, says McCarter "does not romanticize his killers, nor make society the villain."

FOR KIDS....

"Conrack." Older children, and probably their parents as well, are the target audience for "Conrack," last in the 'Specially for Kids' film series at McCarter. The movie will be shown this Saturday at 11 and 2.

It's the story of the idealistic white school teacher, played by Jon Voight, who arrives at a small island off the South Carolina coast with unorthodox ideas about how to teach black grade-school students. There is a crochety old school superintendent, played by Hume Cronyn, and a parent, portrayed by Paul Winfield. (He was the father in "Sounder.") Martin Ritt is the director.

IRELAND....

In New Play. The personal traumas of life in northern Ireland -- a country at war with itself -- are portrayed in a new play to be given by Theatre Intime April 1, 2 and 3 and 8, 9 and 10 in Murray Theatre on the University campus.

The play, "We're On the One Road," is the work of Philomena Muinzer, a resident of Ulster whose name will be familiar to Princeton theatre-goers for her work as a Triangle song-writer. She has witnessed much of the violence in northern Ireland, and has incorporated into her

with MARTIN SHEEN & CISSY SPACEK

BADLANDS revolves around two lonely, restless young people, waiting out the fifties in a South Dakota hamlet. Eventually, the moral vacuum in which their fates are charted, must explode — and explode it does, in scenes of bucolic carnage. This is no exercise in soft-focus nostalgia, but a haunting, clear-eyed elegy. And very possibly one of the great films of the 70's.

Protesting Moviegoers Now Number 2000; University Says Its Options Are Limited

The Princeton Moviegoers Protest, under the leadership of Betty H. Fussell of 26 Lilac Lane, continues unabated. Some 2,000 movie buffs have signed up to protest the long runs and high prices at the two movie theatres; many of them demonstrated earlier this month with placards in front of the Garden Theatre and Mrs. Fussell brought their grievances to Paul Firstenberg, financial vice-president of the University, in a meeting last Wednesday.

Nearly one half the signers are University faculty and students, according to Mrs. Fussell, together with people of all ages and interests in the immediate and surrounding communities. Mrs. Fussell and her backers feel that the Sameric chain, which operates the two theatres on a ten-year lease from Palmer Square, Inc., (in turn owned by the University) "violates the heart of what has made Princeton especially valuable as a community" by disregarding residents' wishes for a greater turnover in first-run, first-rate films.

Explaining University policy, Mr. Firstenberg said that, under Palmer Square management, the two theatres were going bankrupt. The University had two choices: to close the buildings down as theatres (which might include tearing them down) or to subsidize them. "The University," he said, "was not about to subsidize the movie business."

He added that the Garden and Playhouse are "commercial properties" that must make money for the University, and "the University has the right to dispose of them as it sees fit." Movies are a business, he explained, and the only way movie theatres can make money now is to be a part of a chain like Sameric. In order to compete for first-run Hollywood movies, the chain must contract for a long run in a block of its theaters and must therefore charge high prices to make a profit.

Long Lease Essential. When asked by Mrs. Fussell why the University had signed a ten-year lease with Sameric with two five year options after that, Mr. Firstenberg replied, "That was the only way we could make the deal." Asked whether the lease might be broken, Mr. Firstenberg replied, "We don't do business that way." He said he would ask Merton Shapiro, who heads the Sameric chain in Philadelphia and with whom he is in touch, whether other movies might be brought in to the Princeton combine.

Mr. Firstenberg pointed out that there were a number of movies on the campus which were open to the public and which seemed to satisfy the students' needs. He admitted the equipment was frequently poor but added that no member of the University's Budget Committee had ever complained about the low priority of campus movie facilities. These priorities were certainly subject to revision through the proper channels, he said and faculty spokesmen could bring about a reconsideration of movies on campus.

Princeton Moviegoers Protest has not as a group attempted to contact Sameric in Philadelphia, apparently feeling it would be to no avail. The group plans next to bring the matter before the Borough and Township governing bodies at their April meetings and is urging citizens to write President William Bowen of Princeton University, Mayor Cawley and Mayor Bleiman.

"THE FANTASTICKS"
At Lawrenceville April 6. The longest running musical in American theatre history, "The Fantasticks," will be performed by the New York Theatre Company, on The Lawrenceville School's Kirby Arts Center stage at 8 p.m. Tuesday, April 6. Admission is free, on a first-come, first-served basis.

"The Fantasticks," still running in its 15th year in New York, is a harlequinade written by two men from Texas, Tom Jones and Harvey Schmidt, based on an old French romance - Edmond Rostand's first play, "Les Romantiques" written in 1894. Rostand's greatest success was "Cyrano de Bergerac" and "Les Romantiques" was a buried prologue to his later career until Jones and Schmidt used it as the plot for "The Fantasticks."

The plot is simple and eternal. A boy and girl fall in love but are separated by a wall which their seemingly hostile parents have put up. The piquancy of their romance is heightened by the necessity to climb trees on each side of the wall to have clandestine meetings and plot behind the backs of their feuding parents.

The parents are not really feuding but are the best of friends and hope that their children will marry. Believing that the younger generation always contradicts the older, they have erected a wall knowing full well that their children will find a way to get around it.

The New York Theatre Company, now in its second touring season, combines young theatre professionals from all over the country with original, American musical adaptations.

April 2, 9 and 10 in Heritage Hall of the Pennington Presbyterian Church, starting at 8:30. Reservations may be made by calling 737-0718, or tickets may be obtained at the door.

Directed by Mary Rees and produced by Jack Rees, the cast includes Marty Goebel, Allan Salkin, Kate O'Neill, Tom O'Neill, Selma Furst, Rudy Fernandez, Karen Wagner and Bill Agres.

MUSICAL TO OPEN
At Mercer County College. "The Boy Friend," the musical comedy satirizing the wacky wardrobes, fluttery affectations and red-hot hoofing of the 1920's will run at the Mercer County Community College Theatre, West Windsor campus, March 31 through April 4.

"The Boy Friend" is a spoof on the musicals of the Good Old Days when heroes and heroines were innocent, jokes were plain jokes, dancers were hoofers and music had bounce. Sprinkled into the cast of bob-haired flappers and coonskin-coated escorts is a high-spirited French maid, Hortense; noble Lord Brockhurst with an eye for young ladies; and his disapproving wife, Lady Brockhurst.

Curtain-time is 7:30 and admission for the general public is $2, MCCC students and senior citizens free. Ticket reservations will be accepted at 586-4800, extension 304 or 297.

LEGITIMATE DECEPTION
In Magic Show. "Not since the days of Houdini have audiences been so intrigued by the fine art of legitimate deception," says magician Milbourne Christopher, who will do magic for McCarter audiences Saturday afternoon, April 10, at 2 p.m. An evening performance, previously announced, has been cancelled. Ticket-holders may obtain refunds at the McCarter box-office.

Past-president of the Society of American Magicians, a post once held by Houdini, Christopher arranged and performed in the first 90-minute TV magic show in 1957. Since then, he has appeared with Johnny Carson, Ed Sullivan, Merv Griffin and Steve Allen, and has starred in several hour-long magic shows on television.

EXPERIMENT...
On Film. Fifteen filmmakers have contributed to McCarter's annual Evening of Experimental, Independent and Avant-Garde Cinema. It will be Saturday, April 17, at 8 p.m. and all seats are reserved. The program, incidentally, has been designed for adults and nobody under 18 will be admitted.

The three-hour program will present films by Jordan Belson, John Whitney, Frank Mouris, Lillian Schwartz and Fred Mogul, ranging the field from animation and computer graphics to live-action documentaries and the abstract and surrealistic.

GARDEN
Gable and Lombard. If you have fond memories of "the King" and Carole Lombard, don't spoil them by seeing this soap-opera version. It's definitely not the real thing.

The zest, vitality and charm that made Gable and Lombard star attractions are sadly overlooked. What we have instead is a lackluster account of their meeting and stormy romance that supposedly rocked the movie industry and almost ruined their careers, a pallid retelling in a kind of fan magazine prose that reduces the two stars to mere shadows. Except for opening and closing scenes, the film is one long flashback.

Jill Clayburg as Lombard spouts plenty of vulgarities but little of the real Lombard's wit; as Gable, James Brolin struggles with keeping up a macho image.

Both the real two were

Music in Princeton

Instruments include four trombones, five saxophones, five trumpets, a piano, bass and drums.

Directed by Bud Mattio, the ensemble will play works originally performed by Don Ellis, Buddy Rich, Thad Jones and Maynard Ferguson, among others. Featured will be an arrangement of Duke Ellington's "I Got It Bad and That Ain't Good" by John Beers, a senior in the Music Department. The arrangement of Ellington's work is the subject of Mr. Beers' senior thesis.

PIANIST TO BE HEARD

Abramovitz to Play. David Abramovitz, pianist, will give a concert on Sunday, April 4, at 3 in Woolworth Center on the University campus.

A graduate of the class of 1970, Mr. Abramovitz won a Fulbright to Italy and studied with Bruno Canino. Since 1971, he has studied with Robert Helps in New York and received a Master of Music in piano from Manhattan School of Music.

He has given numerous concerts, including one in Princeton last winter. In May of this year, Mr. Abramovitz will make his Carnegie Hall debut with the Collegiate Chorale, under Richard Westernburg, and he will appear at the Aix-en-Provence Festival with Gerard Souzay and Dalton Baldwin this summer.

For his program in Princeton, Mr. Abramovitz will perform: Schubert: Four Impromptus, Op. 90; Roger Sessions: From My Diary (1940); Ravel: Valses nobles et sentimentales and Liszt: Vallee d'Obermann (from Annees de pelerinage: Suisse).

The concert, sponsored by the Friends of Music, is free and open to the public.

ORGAN CONCERT APRIL 4

By Roger Ruckert. Roger Ruckert '77, principal university organist, will present an organ concert in the Princeton University Chapel Sunday, April 4, at 7 p.m.

Mr. Ruckert has played the organ for 10 years, studying mostly with Claire Coci and Carl Weinrich. His concert experience in New York City is extensive; he has played at St. Paul's Chapel, Columbia University; St. Paul the Apostle; Grace Church; and St. George's Church. In July he will perform at St. Patrick's Cathedral and St. John the Divine.

He is also the winner of the Jane Whittemore Competition, sponsored by the Metropolitan New York Chapter, American Guild of Organists, and a co-winner of the High School Competition, sponsored by the New York City Chapter, AGO.

His program on April 4 will consist of: "Toccata" (Op. 59, No. 1) and "Passion" (Op. 145, No. 4) by Max Reger; "Passacaglia and Fugue in C minor" (S. 582) by Johann Sebastian Bach; "Prologus Tragicus" (Op. 86, No. 1) by Sigfrid Karg-Elert; "Elegie" (Op. 38) by Flor Peeters; and "The Tumult in Purgatory" from the "Symphony of Passion" (Op. 20) by Paul de Maleingreau.

This concert is open to the public and admission is free.

strong-willed but against the backdrop of a sun-soaked Hollywood, the film reduces their squabbles to the level of domestic bickering. They struggle with each other's shortcomings, with the pressures exerted by studio heads, with the sham of concealing their affair and with Brolin's difficulty in obtaining a divorce. And whenever the going gets too tough, which is often in this suds, they head for the nearest bed like a pair of continually oversexed adolescents. Whatever chemistry existed between the real-life couple is strictly hormonal here.

In fairness to Clayburgh and Brolin, probably no one could have captured the charm of the legendary duo - and with the soap opera material they are presented with it is impossible. Gable and Lombard would have heartily disapproved.

LAWRENCEVILLE ERIC

Breakheart Pass. An entertaining yarn with Charles Bronson as an undercover federal agent in the 1880s, tracking down a stolen arms shipment that involves corrupt politicians, the Cavalry, renegade Indians and a series of mysterious murders on an armed troop train.

Old-guard Bronson fans expecting a gut-crunching pace may be surprised to find a lot more attention paid to clever plot logistics than to potential gore. Predictably starting out as everyone's suspect, Bronson begins making like a frontier Sherlock Holmes who plays an increasingly dangerous cat-and-mouse game with the band of potential murderers and potential victims sharing his train compartment. A solid piece of entertainment.

MIXED BREW OFFERED

By Hansberry Workshop. The Princeton Youth Center's Hansberry Arts Workshop will present "Brew of Black Souls" Saturday at 8 at the

JURIED PAINTING SHOW

An Idea Whose Time Is Past. The Princeton Art Association has, over the years, become the representative for much of the art being created in the Princeton Community. Classes and workshops have been developed and implemented, various community exhibition programs have been created.

The most conspicuous of the programs has been the Juried Member Shows at McCarter Theatre. For the past decade the PAA has made vigorous efforts to bring art to the public and the public to art.

It is possible, however, that the Princeton Art Association Juried Painting show is an idea whose time is past. In previous years it has contributed, in its way, to encouraging painters in this area. Although the quality has often been uneven, it has provided an opportunity for painters to exhibit and possibly become known.

It is both the quality and the quantity of the present viewing experience that gives question to the merits of continuing this kind of exhibition. Although there are a few competent paintings in the present collection the overall effect of the present show is that of a community center activities program. Lapses in taste, technical inadequacy and derivative style all combine to overshadow the effect of the four or five paintings that offer a few moments of pleasurable viewing.

PHOTOGRAPHY'S RANGE EXPANDED:
Photoengravings developed by Naomi Savage interpret photographic tones into textural surfaces and sculptural effects of the deep bitten plate on display at The Princeton Gallery of Fine Art.

While we are aware that the judge has no control over the quality of the work that is entered, the number of works displayed is surely within his control. A bit of restraint in the selection process could have eliminated the worst offenders and at least have offered the viewing public a few square inches of blank space to rest their eyes.

As it is, McCarter Theatre is chock-a-block with varying degrees of selected whatever with only the rest rooms and phone booths as refuge.

At The Princeton Gallery of Fine Art. The range of photography as an expressive and creative medium is continually expanding. Film art had its beginnings as a technical method of recording an image faithfully. Throughout its development photographers have continued to seek new ways to employ light and shadow and to develop technical innovations as a means of expanding the possible visual experience.

Naomi Savage has used the medium to extend the visual impact of the original image. She has employed both her camera and the darkroom as a vehicle for examining the value of shape and the tonal content of her subject.

She has utilized silhouette, light and textural effects to develop a secondary image and has then reassembled her elements to provide her viewer with a fresh perspective on both the subject and the creative range and depth of the camera and its related technology.

In her earlier work Savage has enhanced the possibilities of the photogram, employed double exposure, solarization and distortion in order to develop her visual statement. Having explored the three dimensional effects of light and shadow within the two dimensional plane of the photograph, she has now extended her medium still further. Bringing it beyond the flat plane of the photograph, she has developed it into a sculptural medium while maintaining the essence of the tonal quality of the good photo.

Beginning with a photographic image she develops her form by intensifying light and shadow. She then modified her composition by a variety of techniques including enlargements, collage and altering the negative. The final image is then translated into an engraved metal plate which is coated with other metals, chemically oxidized, painted, and modified to develop color effects.

The resulting art functions on many levels. Texture, pattern paint the patina created by the oxidized metal for a visual blend that is satisfying and stimulating. The original images have been altered sufficiently to allow the plates to function as design while maintaining enough of the essence of the subject to provide still another dimension.

Some of the plates have also been made into embossed prints which are included in the collection. The contrasts between the surfaces of paper and plate and relief and intaglios provide still another dimension to the images presented. The dynamism of the many surface effects, new ways to see old and familiar forms and pleasing spatial and color balances all combine to make the latest Naomi Savage collection an optical feast.

the mythical Borough family of 2.46 people. Compare it to the $32 that family now pays in sewer taxes.

The $200 a year figure is a realistic one, and it assumes the state will continue to renege on its agreement to pay 15 percent of Stony Brook's costs. If the state does decide to pay the 15 percent, the amount of taxes going toward the bond would only be $118, for a total of $177. Better than $200, at that.

This week, Mr. Olexa has an appointment in Trenton with the Department of Environmental Protection. He expects to find out how the $1,482,795 in sewer repair costs is to be paid for. What part is to be bonded? Will the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority do the bonding or the municipalities? When he finds out definitely, you can add his findings to that $200.

Princeton Savings can help you buy it.

If you think you should buy a new home or refinance your present one now, or wait for better economic conditions, chances are you would tell yourself to wait.

At Princeton Savings we feel that there are several reasons why you should do it now. Excellent mortgage rates are now in effect. Currently it is a buyers market and if you wait you may find that the home you want has increased in cost by several thousand dollars. (Over the last several years, local real estate prices have increased faster than the rate of inflation).

And most important, the portion of the principal you pay each month increases your equity. This plus any increase in value will become your gain. And all during your home ownership Uncle Sam helps by letting you deduct from your income tax all interest paid on your mortgage and your real estate taxes.

So while you may think the cost of money is high, it is far outweighed by the advantages of owning your own home. Right now, Princeton Savings has plenty of Mortgage Money available. We invite you to visit any of our four offices. Our Mortgage Counselors will be happy to see you.

At Gallery 100, Anne Packard focuses on light and the landscape in Cape Cod paintings at Gallery 100. The exhibit has been expanded to include several new oils of sea and shore. Beachscapes, seascapes and surrounding land areas are rendered skillfully employing traditional oil techniques.

Watercolor paintings by Al Barker can be seen in the front gallery. Trees, waterfowl and small country scenes are competently executed in watercolor. Barker's technical fluidity and sensitivity to the possibilities of watercolor is revealed in some of the smaller studies. However, many of the paintings embody cliché effects and lose the freshness of the medium through tight, overworked styles.

At the Art Museum. A small collection of 20th century photographs provide a panoramic overview of stylistic changes that have taken place in this art form. The works of established and mature photographers are combined with those of younger people who are seeking out the contemporary photographic idiom. Major themes used by photographers are considered and many contrasts are provided for the viewer within the limited number of photographs included.

Here's an oddity about one of the men elected to baseball's Hall of Fame this year, pitcher Bob Lemon ... Oddly enough, Lemon wasn't a pitcher at all when he came to the majors ... He was an infielder, then he switched to being an outfielder -- and didn't become a pitcher till six years later, at age 27 ... Yet, even with that late start, he has made the Hall of Fame as a pitcher.

It's easy to guess that the United States and Russia have won the most medals in the history of the Olympics -- but can you guess which countries rank 3rd, 4th and 5th in most medals won over the years? ... Third is England, followed by Sweden and Germany.

Here's a tough question for you ... What athlete in history played on both a championship team in the National Basketball Association -- and on a baseball team that won the World Series? ... Answer is Gene Conley ... He played basketball for the Boston Celtics when they won an NBA championship in 1959, '60 and '61, and he was a pitcher for the Braves when they won the World Series in 1957.

Major Rebuilding Task Lies Ahead for Tiger Basketball Team; Penn May Be Early-Line Favorite But Princeton Will Be Tough

It has been eight years since a team winning an Ivy basketball championship failed to defend its title successfully at least once. Will Princeton, losing its co-captains and three-year back-court pair, Armond Hill and Mickey Steurer, and All-Ivy Barnes Hauptfuhrer, follow such a downward path next winter?

Whereas the Tigers were the odds-on favorite to dethrone Penn when the 1975 season ended -- and lived up to their billing by becoming the fourth team to go 14-0 since the Ivy League first staged an eight-team race in 1954 -- they are not by any means the clear choice now for a second straight title. Shaping up with them at least on equal terms is Pennsylvania, this year's runner up and looking forward to welcoming the best Ivy freshman team to the varsity level.

Some of the other teams from a field that was weaker than usual during the season just ended should also be improved. Best bet is Columbia, which returns all five starters, and will also feel the flow of good material from a better-than-average freshman quintet. Strengthening Penn's bright hopes, however, are the two one-sided triumphs which its freshmen recorded over Columbia (in addition to the two solid victories the first-year Quaker quintet won when it played Princeton.)

At Dartmouth, former Princeton assistant Gary Walters was the only Ivy coach in addition to Pete Carril and Penn's Chuck Daly able to pilot his team to an overall mark above .500 (16-10). Surprisingly, the Green had trouble within the league, where it barely hung on to the break-even point after losing its last two contests by two-point margins to Brown and Yale.

Upsets are inevitable. As has historically been the case, the weakest teams next winter will be capable of upsetting the strongest on a given night. The title-bound Tigers needed good fortune to bring them out ahead of Yale by one at New Haven and Columbia by two at New York, and the lowly Elis ended the race a week earlier than had been expected by edging Penn by two points at the Palestra.

Penn, which had the sophomore of the year in the impressive Keven McDonald, and retains a fine guard in Mark Lonetto, loses All-Ivy John Engles, another senior starter in Bill Jones, and guard John Beecroft. But the strong freshman crop and Daly's good coaching will make the Quakers a major title threat.

Columbia, returning to respectability under Coach Tom Penders, rates as the other player to earn All-Ivy status (with Hill and Hauptfuhrer, Engles and McDonald of Penn.)

Slaughter Named Captain. In losing three starters, plus an experienced reserve guard in Pete Molloy, Carril will build around his new captain, forward Bob Slaughter, and a standout sophomore, Frank Sowinski. Slaughter, an academic casualty at the end of the 1974 season, returned last fall (after having accepted enrollment at Rutgers but never actually attending class there). He started all but three games, had the top field goal percentage among the five regulars with .550 and fitted extremely well into Carril's nation-leading defensive technique.

Whether Sowinski would have beaten out Penn's Keven McDonald for sophomore-of-the-year honors had he not missed five February games, and then been slowed by his deep thigh contusion, is now unanswerable. He is more highly regarded here than McDonald because he blends fine outside shooting with tremendous defensive skills. Among his standout performances were those against Alabama and Maryland, which earned him All-Tournament rating, and the 11 points to which he held All-American Phil Sellers in the loss to Rutgers at Providence.

dark horse that every race must have, and Dartmouth is capable of rounding out first division and of making an outside run for it, as Walters' coaching gains greater impact. The other four entries seem destined for long life in second division, because basketball has been a second-rate sport with them for so long and recruiting is accordingly next to impossible.

Of the four, Brown appears most likely to push its head above water, as it did from 1972-75. The Bruins' high-scoring guard, Brian Saunders, who led all scorers with a 20.4 average, was the only

Of the varsity holdovers, sophomore guard Bill Omeltchenko is a captain starter, having gained extensive experience as a replacement for the ailing Mickey Steurer during the 1976 season. He can bring the ball downcourt against a press, he has Carril-type defensive ability; his need is to develop as a point-guard, a playmaker, and until he or someone not yet in the spotlight takes charge in that fashion next year, the Tigers will have their problems.

Of the others who return next fall, forward Bob Kleinert is the most likely to see steady action. In limited appearances this year, he posted a fine .592 floor average and conducted himself like a basketball player.

Bob Roma a Factor. Off his lack of use this winter, following some fine play in the 1975 NIT triumph, 6-0 center Lon Ramati does not appear destined for a greater share of the action next season. The leading candidate for center is 6-8 Bob Roma, leading scorer (18.5) and rebounder (9.8) on the Tiger freshmen.

Other top prospects from that team are forward Roger Schmitt, runner-up to Roma in scoring with a 14.5 average; and guards John Lewis and Tim Olah. The backcourt play on the first-year quintet was unimpressive, however, and for the first time in years, the Tigers will go to the hardwood wars with apparent weakness there. Widely-heralded -- possibly illogically so -- the Class of 1979 was frequently unimpressive, and finished with a 12-6 record, including a 2-4 mark against Penn, Columbia and Yale.

Highly dependable, occasionally superb (11-for-11 from the floor against Notre Dame, a 31-point career high), Hauptfuhrrer is a three-year fixture whose poise and ability will be greatly missed. So will Steurer's presence, despite his disappointing senior year that was traceable to prolonged ankle and wrist injuries.

The biggest gap will, of course be created by the graduation of Armond Hill, All-Ivy for two seasons, All-East this year and a probably high NBA draft choice. Despite occasional off-nights on offense, and a tendency to foul out more than any other player, it was his great ability and floor leadership that paced the 14-0 Ivy mark and overall 22-5 record.

About all that seems logical to expect in next year's Ivy race is that the winner is much more likely to post a 12-2 or even 11-3 record than the 14-0 mark which Princeton achieved this season. Beyond that, if Princeton, Penn and just possibly Columbia come down the stretch with a shot at the title, remember that only one of them will be coached by Pete Carril.

Henry Lane

SOPHOMORE ALL-IVY

In Hockey. One of Princeton's few nominations in recent years to All-Ivy hockey status has gone to Henry Lane, a sophomore defenseman on the Tiger six. His father, Judge Arthur Lane, played football and hockey for the Orange and Black in the mid 30s.

The 1976 all-star team selected by the seven Ivy coaches is highly unusual in three respects: No player from either Cornell or Harvard was named to the first team (within the past decade, all six players in one season were from Cornell); Harvard, a power in the league for the better part of the past 20 years, failed to place a player even on the second team; and all six players on the first team came either from Brown, the champion, or Dartmouth, a strong third-place finisher.

Brown placed four players on the first team; Dartmouth filled the other two places and added two more of its players to the second team. Along with Harvard, Penn and Yale were also unrepresented.

FOUR TEAMS WIN

In Doubles Competition. Ten youngsters from the winter advanced session of the Princeton Community Tennis Program travelled to the Hunterdon Tennis Center to participate in informal doubles competition.

Five doubles events were scheduled and Princeton players were able to chalk up four victories. Winning pairs were Kendall Harmon and John Koether, Scott Santin and Chris King, Tricia Keeler and Richard Klubeck, David Asano and Stephan Ellis. Lisa Garb and Phil Salzmann lost.

All groups in the Program will go outdoors for the spring session starting April 5. Registration for all classes, juniors and adults, is now in progress. Check at the Tennis Office, 71 University Place, or call 924-4343 for further information.

PHS Baseball Team Hopes New Crop of Players Can Lift It Beyond Disappointments of 1975

"I love baseball. Being a head coach has been my dream," said Jim O'Neill last spring as he began his first year as head coach of the Princeton High School baseball team.

Despite his love for the game, it was not a season that O'Neill will remember with affection. The squad that he inherited lost 17 and won only three. With it went his announced goal: to do his best to make PHS respectable once again on the diamond. (In the past three years, the Little Tigers have won a total of ten games.)

"Last year was a big disappointment," acknowledged O'Neill. "We inherited mostly seniors, all who played ball before. This year we've revised our thinking. We're working with younger kids; sophomores and juniors will be playing a lot." Before the first ball was thrown, O'Neill has predicted four sophomores would be regulars on this year's team.

He lost nine seniors—seven of them starters: Pete Watson, Eddie Volz, Don Seitz, Greg Robinson, Eric Jahn, Larry Howell and John Madden. Also departing were Mike Boccanfuso and Greg Warnagieris.

Errors, lots of errors—often more than six a game—were probably the leading reason why the season turned sour last year. "We came far short of .500. We're still trying for that before we look for bigger fish, but even if the outcome is a little questionable this year, offensively," commented O'Neill, "I think we'll be more consistent defensively. I'll really be disappointed if we don't pickup the next couple of years."

Although O'Neill has his eye on the future he is still optimistic about the new season, which opens next Thursday at home against East Brunswick. The early question marks, O'Neill reported, are first and third base, one outfield position and a pitching staff that is dominated by untested hurlers and has only one back from last year's varsity squad, lefthander Mike Boonin.

Boonin, said O'Neill, "has good control, a good ERA and has picked up speed over the year." Boonin owns one of last year's three wins.

Two other lettermen returning are shortstop Scott Thompson, a junior, who led PHS in batting last year with a .293 average, and Dave Seagers. A senior and former 180-pound guard on the football team, Seagers will be a fixture behind the plate.

A third is Paul Soderman, a good-fielding centerfielder last year who O'Neill has labeled one of his definite outfielders this spring.

To fill some of the remaining holes, O'Neill is counting on four sophomores, all of whom played freshmen ball. Al Kendall, he says, is "a definite starter" in the outfield, while Johnny Miller is a candidate for the infield. Kendall is a good batter who sprays his hits.

A pair of sophomores destined for mound duty are Keith Phox and Carl Nazzaro. Both played Babe Ruth ball last year for Princeton Bank and Trust. Both are righthanders.

Johnny Boccanfuso, a junior who didn't play last year, is described by O'Neill as a "good little player with all natural talent." Senior candidates include Alex Robertson, converted to a pitcher this year; Jimmy LaPlaca, another pitching prospect, and infielders Mark Lovering, John Hoover and Felix Brown. Brown, a 6-4 standout on the basketball team, who says baseball is his favorite sport, is trying to fill the hole at first base. O'Neill is hoping that Brown will also work out as a relief pitcher. Brown played freshman ball but skipped the sport the next two seasons.

Learning from his first-year experience, O'Neill reported that he is spending more time with his pitchers and catchers, despite the handicap of no indoor facility.

"I'm much happier at this point with the progress there than I was at this time last year," he said.

Before the opener, PHS will hold practice games with Steinert Thursday and Montgomery Monday. O'Neill would have liked to have had more. The 20-game regular-season schedule, however, is a shade less demanding.

The Little Tigers will play home-and-home contests with each of the teams that will make up next year's new Colonial League, of which PHS will be a member—Lawrence, Hightstown, St. Anthony, West Windsor (new this year) Notre Dame and Hopewell Valley. Other traditional opponents—Trenton, Ewing and Hamilton, all larger than PHS—the Blue and White will meet only once.

LACROSSE TEAM 1-1

Maryland Next. No better than .500 after playing a pair of unranked teams, Princeton will travel to College Park Saturday for a game against Maryland, the NCAA lacrosse champion. Off their 14-11 upset at the hands of Syracuse in their opener and the fact that a 24-6 victory over weak Fairleigh-Dickinson was of no competitive value, the Tigers appear in for trouble.

Snowed out of its first attempt to play two weeks ago, the Orange and Black met Syracuse last week, yielded seven first-period goals and dropped firmly out of the seventh-ranked spot in which it had been ranked before the season began. An eight-goal outburst by Princeton kept it in the running during the second period, but the Tigers were never able to take the lead.

Junior attackman Wick Sollers collected eight goals at Fairleigh-Dickinson Saturday, while classmate Dave Tickner also enjoyed the first day of spring with 11 points—six goals and five assists. The Orange and Black broke the game open in a hurry with eight goals in each of the first two periods. Three goalies were called upon to make only 14 saves against the losers.

The Tigers, who did not meet Maryland last spring, have won only seven of the 34 games played in the rivalry. They will open their home season Saturday, April 3, against Johns Hopkins, which won in Baltimore a year ago, 22 to 11.

INTO THE BREECH: Sophomores Keith Phox (left) and Carl Nazzaro are expected to pitch this spring for the PHS baseball team, according to coach Jim O'Neill.

BALL TEAM IN SOUTH

Tigers Lose 2 of 3. Confronted by a Louisiana State University team that had already played 16 games, Princeton opened its baseball season this week by dropping two of the three contests played with its hosts.

In Sunday's doubleheader, veteran right-hander Mike Softy was in top form as he worked 11 fine innings, allowed just five hits and five walks while striking out 11. In their first two games of the season, and their first real opportunity to play outdoors, the Tigers completed both games without an error.

Designated hitter Bob Flaherty drove in Princeton's first run in the seventh to bring it even, and they then bunched four straight singles in the top of the 11th to seal a 4-1 verdict. Contributing the blows were outfielders Jon Blodgett and Paul Pecka, second baseman Kevin Kaufman and shortstop Denny Spates. The latter both hit safely twice in the game, Spates adding two more in the seven-inning nightcap, which the Tigers lost, 4-2.

Senior righthander Mike French had control problems in that game, at one point walking four consecutive batters to give the visitors a run. The Tigers out hit LSU, 10-6, but left too many men on base.

Other games on the trip are scheduled for Wednesday against Nicholls State at Thibodeaux, La.; a doubleheader with the same opponent Thursday, and single contests Friday and Saturday with Tulane in New Orleans. The home opener is set for next Thursday, April 1, against Fordham.

The Monday night game saw the Orange and Black yield two runs in the first, draw even in the second but eventually lose, 6 to 2, as Bob Tufts was tagged with the defeat. A double by Greg Adams drove in Princeton's first run and Paul Pecka's squeeze bunt tallied the second. Ed Kuchar and Kevin Plunkett each got two of the losers' five hits.

Coach Len Rivers, a native Princetonian who came here with Bob Casciola's football staff three years ago and last spring was named to succeed Eddie Donovan following the latter's retirement, has seven of last year's regulars back. There is sufficient experience and depth to give him a shot at the Eastern League title, which has eluded the Tigers since 1953.

Mark Softy, Mike French and

Bob Tufts all had highly respectable ERAs last season, although the inconsistent hitting and occasionally weak fielding prevented any of them from topping the .500 mark. Andy Kennenber and Matt Gorman are the top sophomores, with freshmen also eligible this year in the Ivy League for the first time.

The infield returns intact, with first, second and third represented by all-league choices in Kevin Plunkett, Kevin Kaufman and Ed Kuchar. Plunkett became the first Princetonian in more than 30 years to win the league batting title outright when he hit a lousy .442.

Junior Dennis Spates is back at shortstop, but Rivers will also take a look at another junior, Scott Sullivan and a sophomore, Scott Addis. A reserve second baseman, Bob Flaherty, is the top choice as designated hitter.

Additional strength at the plate should come from catcher Jack Basta, .326 a year ago, with sophomore Glenn Robinson his replacement. In the outfield, center will be adeptly patrolled by the fleet captain, Glenn Christy, with another letterman, Paul Pecka, in right. Jon Blodgett, a senior, and freshman Bob Bolling are the leading candidates for the left field job that Eric Hoberg vacated through graduation.

STRENGTH IN NUMBERS? Bill Cirullo Hopes So. "The great thing so far is more numbers; we have a lot of people who are going to play a lot of ball."

Princeton High School lacrosse coach Bill Cirullo was pleased with the 50 candidates that have responded to his call for practice—25 of them freshmen. It was one of the biggest squads ever, but Cirullo will need all the manpower he can get to fill positions, particularly at midfield and attack.

Last year, the Little Tigers won four and lost nine in regular season play. But five of those were one-goal losses, two in double overtime. They lost their final game to Newton in the last four seconds. "We were five or six goals from turning our season around," commented Cirullo.

Off those close defeats, PHS was invited to participate for the second year in a row in the annual state tournament.

Opener April 1. And this year? "I think we have the ability to stay with most any team," said Cirullo. "If we meet the competition head-on and play the way we are capable of playing, we will definitely win our share."

PHS will open its season next Thursday at Pingry. Two teams—Clifton and Fairlawn—have been dropped from the 13-game schedule and have been replaced with Johnson Regional (the former Clark Lacrosse Club) and Cinaminson.

In a quick assessment, Cirullo said that defense would be the team's strength because of the experience he has there. He also has one standout attack player in junior Morgan Mohrman. "But our whole attack will not be based on him," he added.

"We have a bit more organization, a bit more variety this year—maybe because I'm learning more." Cirullo, who never played the sport in school, is starting his third year as coach. He is being assisted by Bill Losey, who has the jayvee team.

BACK ON ATTACK: Morgan Mohrman, second leading scorer for the PHS lacrosse team last year, will lead the attack again. He is a junior.

Cirullo had his first good look Saturday when PHS scrimmaged Rutgers Prep. The Blue and White won the varsity match-up, 4-2. "I was pretty well satisfied. We controlled the offensive tempo but the play was somewhat sloppy on both sides," said Cirullo.

2nd Pre-Season Test. PHS will engage in one more pre-season game against Abington High School on Thursday.

Princeton's defense led by a pair of 200-pound plus veterans—Nate Harris and Craig Rendall. They will be joined by returning letterman Craig Strazza.

Mohrman will be the mainstay at attack. As a sophomore last year, he scored 32 points to finish second to his brother Mace, who led the team with 34 points. Joining Mohrman will be Pierre Muri and two juniors up from the jayvee squad, Matt Adriance and Jamie Leshner.

Three letterman return at midfield. Steve Mapes, who Cirullo reports has improved his stick work; Bill Cobb, who has a lot of experience and will "help control the tempo" and Stu Brown, the latter "one of our holler guys who has a good left hand shot."

"If there is one thing we need to improve on, it's speed," said Cirullo. To help achieve it he is counting on sophomore John Morris, Phil Billington, a transfer from Princeton Day School, Doug Firstenberg and Bobby Campbell. Cirullo lost two promising middies in Paco

Irby, who moved to Boston, and John Haroldson, who transferred to PDS.

In the goal will be junior Bob Willis who is untested, but who, Cirullo said, "has learned a lot and shown a great deal of improvement."

In addition, Cirullo reported he was encouraged by the appearance of two seniors, both football players, who never played the sport before. They are Eric Ziolkowski, a solid, former fullback, and speedy Dan Schulman who would up as quarterback.

"They've made a lot of progress," said Cirullo. "If they continue to work hard, they will be an immediate boost to the team. Both are good defensive players."

BOLSTER NCAA WINNER

In Swimming. Jim Bolster, a junior at Denison University in Ohio, won the 200-yard butterfly in 1:56.6 in the NCAA Division 3 swimming meet at Washington and Jefferson College, Washington, Pa. Bolster also finished seventh to win the consolation finals of the 100-yard butterfly. His time was 53.1.

His best time in the 200 butterfly last year was 2:00.5. Sixty-two colleges comprise the NCAA Division 3.

A 1974 Princeton High School graduate, Bolster has won varsity letters in soccer, lacrosse and swimming in his freshman and sophomore years. He will co-captain the Denison soccer team next fall.

Bolster is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bolster, Jr., 124 Parkside Drive.

MEETING SCHEDULED

For Men's Softball. An organizational meeting of the Men's Slow-Pitch Softball League will be held this Thursday at 7:30 in the Recreation Department office, Room 210, Valley Road School.

The management of Z&W Enterprises would like to thank its many friends and customers for their sympathy following the tragic death last week of Ray Walle, one of the owners of Z&W.

Ray was perhaps best known for his achievements in racing and for being the guiding light in Z&W's service department. His loss will be felt by all who have known, worked with or otherwise come in contact with Ray.

However, life must go on and Z&W intends to continue and will not close its doors. To be sure, no race cars will be built in the near future, but its sales and service departments will go on providing the kind of assistance Ray's friends and customers have come to expect. As in the past, the mechanics at Z&W, most of whom were trained by Ray, will do their best to keep both friends and customers on wheels. Z&W has trained and experienced technicians to keep almost any car on the road: not just Mazdas, Alfa Romeos and Hondas, but also Jaguars, Mercedes and BMWs. Z&W will shortly add Honda cars to its existing lines.

Once again, thank you and hopefully, with a little help from all, Ray Walle's ideas of what a car dealership should be like will continue to make Z&W a different sort of place to buy a car from or to have it serviced and repaired.
